EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

IN less than five weeks Congress will convene.

When people are in low spirits they do wrong to resort to spirits and get high.

Cardinal Newman says a gentleman is one who never inflicts pain. This is rough on dentists.

THE defensive alliance between Germany, Austria and Italy is decidedly offensive to France and Russia.

NOT feeling quite up to the task of tackling the triple alliance, the Russian Government falls back on its old resources of unearthing new Nihilist plots.

IF Mr. Tucker has discovered anything in the constitution of the United States to interfere with the hanging of the Chicago Anarchists, he has found a proper corner to hang an amendment on.

ALTHOUGH Jay Gould is in London, the world is revolving on its axis just the same, and the price of telegraphing, like coal, has been advanced. Monopoly is always grasping and unsatisfied.

JEFF DAVIS does not appear to have been very ill after all, as he was able to leave Macon for home on Friday last. "The good die young, but they whose hearts are as dry as summer dust burn deep in the socket."

A CARPENTER fell from a roof in Homestead, Pa., the other day, and broke his neck. The fact that this man is said to have told a fellow workman before his death that he was one of the Chicago bomb-throwers has attracted considerable notice to him.

THE discovery of dead men who confessed before their respective deaths that they severally and individually threw that Chicago bomb, may be expected to be a regular industry from this time until that great crime shall have faded from the general memory.

AN exchange says:—"Mrs. James Brown Potter expects to make $100,000 this season. Is it any wonder that actresses are jealous?" Pshaw. Is it any wonder that their husbands are jealous—of having their wives' earnings lavished upon anybody else than themselves.

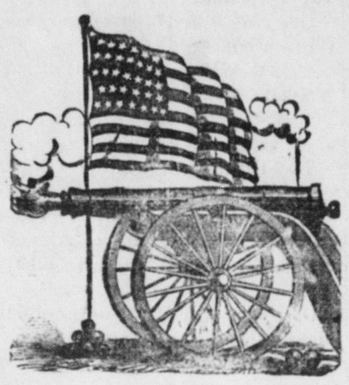
THERE is said to be a prospect of a square and fair fight between the Standard Oil company and the Inter-State Commerce Commission. If the latter body proves its ability to bring the monopoly into subjection to the law, it will demonstrate its usefulness to the satisfaction of the whole public.

HERR MOST has in his mind's eye a monument to the memory of the condemned Anarchists. So have we. Here it is:—A huge wolf in agonies of death writhing under the knee of a brawny workman, while his wife and child stand safely in the back-ground. Beneath it is this inscription:—"The home saved."

IT is alleged in Greensburg, says the Record of that place, that S. A. Covert, a resident of Orbisonia, Huntingdon county, and the sub-contractor of the brickwork on the new St. Joseph's Academy building at that place, skipped on Saturday morning, taking with him $1,900 in cash, with which he was to have paid his workmen.

SULLIVAN, America's fistic pride, arrived in Queenstown all right. He was one of the few on the ship whom the ocean voyage did not make sick, which indicates that he must be in good condition. The girls on the vessel and those who first saw him fell in love with him, but Mrs. Sullivan is along, so John behaves himself properly and don't respond to the pretty girls' advances. The people of the British isle who have seen him are already duly impressed with his greatness. Now, we don't admire fighting and really wish John would leave the ring, but we must say that, if there is any man on the other side of the water who desires to run up against John,—why, we hope John will be able to "lay him out" easily.

RING SMASHED



A Complete Democratic Rout.

A COLD DAY FOR CENTRE COUNTY DEMOCRACY.

Did You Notice It?

LOOK AT THE MAJORITIES—

RHOADS	451
COOKE	491
GOSS	189
HARTER	40
HENDERSON	350
DECKER	236

Rupp Has Only 22 Majority.

FIEDLER'S MAJORITY 93.

TWO DEMOCRATIC AUDITORS ELECTED

The Result.

As every one will agree, the result of Tuesday's election in Centre county is a subject of much congratulation. The entire Republican ticket was elected with one exception, Mr. John A. Rupp, the Democratic candidate for Register.

To what may we attribute this even surprising change of party control? It is an emphatic protest against the ring which has maniplated this county, corruptly, so long. In accomplishing it hundreds of honest Democrats have assisted. To these gentlemen, who esteem purity in office above party ties, we extend earnest thanks. Remain with us and we will give to you an honest and pure administration of county affairs, of which you will be proud.

We especially congratulate Wilbur F. Reeder, Esq., the bright and energetic County Chairman, for his success and skill. He has commended himself to the party to an extent that will win its esteem and he will deserve further and greater preferment from it.

Of course the lucky candidates are included in these congratulations.

PEACE hath its triumphs as well as war. What Bob Garrett has to say about his lost telegraph company will be read with ten times as much interest by people North and South as the sorrowful remembrances which Jeff Davis is freshly airing again over the "lost cause." In the language of Rev. Mr. Jasper the "world do move," and at a time when the scenes are set for Garrett and Gould in a lively business burlesque, it is somewhat unfair to these eminent artists to have the tragic supernumerary who lags superfluous in the neighborhood of Macon come in upon the foreground and try to steal the thunder of public notice.

A Hero of the Struggle.

The impression being made on the world by Mr. O'Brien, the editor of United Ireland, is certainly entirely creditable to that gentleman. He stands out to-day as one of the strong, central, permanent figures of the struggle between Ireland and England; or, more correctly, between the English government as now constituted, and the oppressed people of Erin. For we refuse to believe that there is any struggle between the English people and their Celtic neighbors. The English people deeply sympathise with those who have been bound to them so long by the same ties of government.

Mr. O'Brien has arisen to the emergency of the occasion. Having been placed behind the prison bars, he refuses to be numbered among the common criminals. He will not wear prison garb or associate with the other persons in the prison. Thus, he defies all the power of the government to humiliate him Though a prisoner, he is still as great as ever and, as some one has said, is worth $10,000 per day to the Irish cause while a prisoner.

Mr. O'Brien has shown himself, in other respects, to be devoted to the cause fo which he labors. His salary as editor of United Ireland has been $10,000 per year, but it is said that he has only drawn of that sufficient for his expenses. When one's patriotism will lead him to make such sacrifices he is a patriot, indeed.

TO HAVE Lamar made Supreme Judge with the hope that Patison may succeed him in the Interior Department would be rather too much good luck for the public interests to permit any great expectations of its turning out that way.

Another Accident.

Almost daily, now, a dispatch is received telling of a great accident of some kind. In another part of this paper is an article telling to whom the responsibility for railroad accidents can be attributed. It seems to us, also, that many of the accidents of other kinds might be averted by ordinary care.

We do not say that the disastrous accident at Nashville, Tenn., on Friday morning, was one of that kind, but relate the particulars here only because it did not come in our regular dispatches. It seems that at 4 o'clock on Friday morn the building on College street that city occupied by Weakley & Warren as a furniture store was discovered on fire, and owing to the inflammable character of the material, the flames spread rapidly through the building and communicated with the adjoining buildings. The entire block, from Bank alley south to the Western Union building, was one immense sheet of flame. The fire department, after desperate efforts, succeeded in limiting the devouring element within the space described.

During the progress of the fire the walls of the building adjoining Bank alley fell in and quite a number of people are known to be injured, some fatally. Among the wounded was a son of J. B. Moore, aged about 15 years, skull terribly crushed and will die; William Steward, sign painter, left leg badly fractured; Bradford Nichol, hand injured, besides a fireman and a number of others more or less injured. Others of the workmen are now removing. The telegraph wires in nearly all directions were burned and over a hundred telephone wires destroyed.

MRS. CLEVELAND has just been presented with an elaborate fan by the good people of Jamaica. It will be just the thing to keep the President from fainting when he hears the way New York has gone in the election to-day. How timely some gifts are.

A NEW vein of anthracite coal near Wilkesbarre is expected to net the corporation owing it $3,000,000.

Railroad Smash-ups—The Responsibility.

The frequency, and appalling nature of the railroad accidents in all parts of our country during the past season, should awaken inquiry as to the cause, or causes, of these fearful calamities, and should fix the blame wherever it belongs Now, we take the ground that in a large majority of instances these accidents might have been avoided by proper precaution.

A constant inspection of bridges, of trestle elevations, of rails, &c., should be made. For the collision of trains there can be no possible apology or excuse.

A few years ago the public indignation was aroused by the frequent accidents, and the censure of the press and the people upon the management of the roads was so great as to induce a marked reform, and the greater care bestowed by the heads of the different departments of the railroads made a preceptible lessening in the number of accidents for some time.

Of late the country has again been horrified by accounts of many railroad accidents of the most frightful and calamitous consequences. These occurrences, so often repeated, are woful not only to the friends of the killed and wounded, but send a thrill of horror through all hearts.

To settle the question of who is to blame, to find the immediate culprit, will not in the slightest degree, mitigate the frightful nature of the calamity, nor lessen the anguish of the bleeding hearts of relatives and friends. But the people of the country, the whole people should feel themselves aggrieved, that their rights, their claims to consideration and protection are disregarded when occurrences like these are allowed to happen.

We say allowed, and we use this word advisedly, for in nearly every instance of these terrible smash-ups the cause may be easily traced to the incompetent, stupid or reckless management of the directing officers of the roads.

It is sheer nonsense, and a miserable subterfuge, to try to shift the blame from the head directors to the switchmen, engineers, or other subordinates who are but pliant tools in their hands. The working managers of all railroads should know exactly what kind of tools, or help, they employ—this is part of their obligation to the public,—that they should understand precisely whether the right men have been secured and placed in all positions of trust; and they should be held, in every moral and legal sense, responsible for all incompetency or violation of duty that may affect individual or public weal.

The business of passenger and freight traffic is a matter of contract, in which the railroad company is one party, and the public is the other. Let the companies understand this, and let their officers feel that they will individually be held accountable, and be compelled to pay the penalty by moral and legal enforcement, for all violations of such tacit agreement, and we shall then have a more diligent management of the various roads, a more careful selection of subordinates, and a personal supervision by the principal officers of matters which have heretofore been under the sole direction of incompetent or ignorant employes entrusted with the safety of human lives, at eighty cents, and one dollar per day!

When the public sense of justice shall demand the enactment of a law which shall make the officers of companies criminal accessories with switchmen, engineers, conductors, in all accidents involving the loss of human life, then will the rules governing the running of passenger trains soon become thoroughly understood, alike by the officers and men employed, and thus a larger percentage of safety to the traveling public will be assured. IS beauty dying out? Asks a writer in the Philadelphia Times. We cannot understand what would suggest such a strange question to any sane man. It looks as if the writer must be a woman. The article treats principally of woman, so some member of that sex who is too selfish to see beauty anywhere except in the looking glass, probably wrote it. No, beauty is not dying out, especially among the ladies. If anyone wants proof of this he should come to Bellefonte. Here every other girl that is met is a beauty, and some are fairly enchanting. Why, in our walk home at noon to-day we saw one who was charming. Beauty is not dying out, but is becoming more lively as the days pass by.

THERE seems to be a degree of disquietude in the glass trade of Pennsylvania. Will it result in benefit or detriment to the glass factory here?

GENERAL NOTES.

A Boston man was choked to death the other day by a restaurant beefsteak.

A potato that weighed 11 pounds was raised by a man in Lawrence county Ark.

A box of ripe strawberries was picked on October 24 among the foot hills of the White Mountains.

This is the generous period of the year when every man is willing to help his neighbor—to vote.

E. C. Huntley, of Stanton, Mich., has raised a radish that is 25 inhces long and weighs 14 pounds 8 ounces.

During the past 12 months, 5,836 691 barrels of flour were shipped from Minneapolis by seven railroads.

A Macon man is the proud possessor of an old hat, once worn by Jeff Davis, for which he has refused $100.

Simon Collins, a blind man, living a Marietta, Pa., is said to be one of the best mechanics in the country.

Kalamazoo is shipping about five freight cars full of celery every week, besides about 50 tons daily by express.

Snakes six feet long with bright red rings around their necks are reported to have been seen recently on a farm near Decatur, Ill.

A Clarksville, Ill., turkey gobbler stole a guinea hen's nest, sat on the eggs, hatched the chicks, and is raising them with great care.

Seven thousand five hundred bushels of chestnuts were handled by the American Express Company at Bradford, Pa., one day recently.

A Williamsport cow has distinguished herself by crossing a high railroad trestle, walking on the ties, because she was too lazy to go around.

Mrs. Dr. Burnside, the first woman ever nominated for a political office in Buffalo, has been nominated for Superintendent of Education.

In 1800 there were in all the United States only six cities of over 6 000 inhabitants. In 1880 there were 286, and by this time many more.

A number of medical experts have examined a St. Louis gentleman who is in perfect physical health, and decided that his heart is on his right side.

OCTOBER PICTURES.

The pumpkin pie is yellow,
The buckwheat cake is brown,
The farmer's gray neck whiskers
Are full of thistle down.

The leaves are crisp and russet,
The sumach's blazing red,
The butternut descending
Is cracked upon your head.

The rabbit is cavorting
Along the gloomy slope,
The shotgun of the sportsman
Eliminates his hope.

The butterfly's departed,
Likewise the belted bee,
The small boy in the orchard
Is up the apple tree.

The county fair is blooming,
The circus is no more,
And and on the polished brass dogs
We make the hickory roar.

The trees wear lovely colors
In beautiful excess;
All nature seems to rustle
Just like a new silk dress.

The sausage soon will ripen,
And popcorn balls will pop,
And Christmas things enliven
The window of the shop.

BUFFALO BILL.

BY LORD ALFRED TENNYSON.

Thou long of hair, of stalwart form,
Whose true, unerring aim can throw
And hit the bounding buffalo
And quickly make it very warm

For him. O thou of bloody scenes,
Who lashed in battle's rudest shock
With the wild Indians of New York
And grizzly bears of New Orleans;

Who scalped the Sioux on Boston's plains,
And thro' wild Cincinnati's woods
And Philadelphia's solitudes
Lifted the covering from their brains.

Still let the Brooklyn river flow,
The wild Ohio ocean beat;
Still let the shaggy bison fleet
Tread Pittsburg's forest to and fro.

But thou begirt by London's scenes,
Shall ne'er return to wander more
Thro' the waste wilds of Baltimore
Or the deep woods of New Orleans.

Our Story Teller.

AN UNKNOWN HEROINE.

A VERY PATHETIC STORY OF MUSICAL LIFE.

From the Boston Advertiser.

"Congratulate me, Aura," exclaimed a clear, hopeful, girlish voice. And the owner of it hurried through a wide old-fashioned New England hallway toward a room where the person addressed was reclining in an invalid's chair.

"Hurra!" replied a voice from the chair very feebly but with much pathetic humor. "Come in, and let's shake hands over it."

The first speaker, however, stopped in the hallway, where the sunlight framed her prettily, with the hall for background.

"I shall not come in until you tell me you are glad of it."

"Glad of it! You know I have no jealousy of you whatever. Come in, you dear old Vi, and let me see your wholesome face."

So Vi. came in demurely enough, and standing by the invalid's chair, took her hand gently and caressed it. No need to say that these were two friends; the one rosy, flushed with health and present happiness, the other pale and wan, but not without an inquisitive look about her little mouth which made her face attractive in spite of the ever present look of suffering there.

"Tell me all about it, Vi.," said the invalid after a moment of silence, during which Viola drew up a chair and sat down by her friend.

"The great concert comes of the middle of next week, and I am to play the violin concerto. Just think of it: My name will be printed on the concert announcements, 'First appearance of Miss Viola Carpenter, the wonderful violin virtuoso!' O, I am so happy! And Monsieur Blaumer gave me such praise last evening!"

"Monsieur Blaumer! You played to him?"

"I took out my violin, and at a nod from Herr Paulitz I began. Well, Aura, I can't tell you all they said when I had finished. The gentleman with the beard complimented me highly, and said he should not be chagrined to yield, and to a better player than himself. But Monsieur Blaumer came up and shook hands with me and wanted to be introduced again, he said. And—and—Aura—I always have to praise myself when I'm with you. The end of it was that Monsieur Blaumer has engaged me to play the concerto next week on one condition."

"One condition?"

"Yes; that I play as well to the public as I did to him."

"No fear of you. What an honor! How proud I shall be! What is the date of the concert?"

"The 15th."

"Do you remember? The 15th was the day on which I was to make my debut as one of the greatest singers of the age?" And Aura looked up quizzically at Viola.

Viola looked down at her friend, and her eyes grew moist with tears as she took Aura's hand and said, self-reproachfully, "How selfish of me to be happy when you are so miserable!"

"Viola Carpenter, what a wicked girl you are! Don't you waste any of your sympathy on me. If you are happy you had better feel so, without being miserable over it. Let go of my hand. I know you don't love me when you talk so!"

But Viola, laughing, still held the hand of her friend while she begged her pardon for yielding to an emotion of pity for her. Aura pretended not to be satisfied with the apology, but she finally smiled at some funny expression used by Viola, and the two went off into a lively discussion of the coming concert.

These two had become acquainted very suddenly through an accident that had happened to Aura. She had been thrown from a carriage, and Viola had helped take her to her home. A few days after, when Viola was calling at the house to inquire about the sufferer, Aura began to question the famous surgeon who had been attending her. He had finished his examination and was preparing to go.

"Doctor, must I lie here all my life? Shall I never get well?"

"My dear girl I am afraid so; yes."

"Why are you afraid? Don't you believe in God? Do you know," she said, turning to Viola, "I think it is a great mercy that my mind has been spared."

Then she turned to the doctor again:

"Doctor, my mind will not be seriously injured, will it?"

"I pray God that it may not," replied the doctor evasively.

"But tell me the truth," persisted Aura.

"There is no danger at present."

"But there may be. Is that what you mean?"

"There may be, yes, if the spine is injured in a certain way. But the development of that injury will not be apparent for weeks, it may be for months, or even years."

"But my voice, Doctor. Shall I ever be able to sing again? And I had such a beautiful voice given to me. I wonder if I can use it now."

She tried to sing a simple air, but the notes came feebly, and after one or two efforts she stopped, evidently in great pain.

"No," replied the doctor, "you will never be able to sing again."

One day Viola had been playing a certain famous theme written for the violin, a classical piece composed almost entirely of variations in two different keys. After Viola had played for nearly half an hour she suddenly stopped.

"I must be playing very badly today," said she with a sigh.

"What makes you think so?" asked Aura, opening her eyes and smiling at the flushed look of the player.

"Because you lie there so still. I have not had a hint from you yet."

"I will tell you what I was thinking. That piece you have been playing is absolutely heartless. The spirt of Ole Bull himself couldn't breathe any life into that thing. I know it's heresy to say anything of the sort, but I say it. You might fairly out-Paganini yourself on it," continued Aura, inventing an epithet for the occasion, "and it would still be as dead as the cat that supplied the fiddle-strings! But why can't you get something else? Or, better still, why not improvise something? Or take my song from Elijah, 'O Rest in the Lord,' and make a composition with that theme for the coloring?'

"Yes," said Viola, catching Aura's enthusiasm, "it could go something like this," and she began to play the air with a wonderfully skillful touch, gradually weaving about it a series of simple but strong chords which made Aura's face fairly quiver with delight.

"That's it! that's it! You have caught just what I have longed for many a time, and never could accomplish with my voice. O, when I get to Heaven I shall learn to play on the violin! Do you think it is wicked to talk so?"

"No, indeed."

The day after Viola's announcement respecting her engagement to play at the grand concert Aura suddenly suggested—"By the way, what will you play for an encore?"

"Provided I have one," answered Viola with a smile. "I thought I would play the 'Flying Dutchman,' by Bellini."

Aura was silent for a little while. Finally she said, "Why don't you play 'O Rest in the Lord'?"

"What! our best piece?"

"Why not? There is more soul in it than in anything else you play."

"But it is our private property. It does not seem right to make it public."

"I know. I feel that way myself. But, after all, I want others to hear it. Why should we be selfish in this respect?"

"I will play it, then," said Viola simply, and she went on with her practicing.

The next day was a busy one for Viola. There was a full rehearsal in the afternoon at which the singers in the chorus and the solo singers and musicians stared at the young girl inquisitively as she came on for her part, and for a moment she felt almost daunted. But an assuring glance from Mr. Blaumer set her at ease, and when she finished she felt sure of success in the evening from the genuine applause which went up among the professional singers and players. Musicians can be generous in spite of their sometimes absurd jealousies of one another.

Viola went back to her brother's house, had a good nap, waked in time to dress leisurely, and was sitting, finally, all ready for the carriage which would be at the door in a few minutes, when the bell rang and the servant brought in a note, the reading of which made Viola turn pale and tremble:

"DEAR MISS CARPENTER: Aura was suddenly seized with convulsions this afternoon. She has recovered a little from them, and has been constantly calling for you every since. I fear she is losing her mind. But she says you promised to come, and if you can do so please come at once. She says she wants you to bring your violin.

"MRS. HARDWICK."

What should she do? She glanced at the clock. It was half-past seven. The concert began at eight. She picked up a concert programme from several lying on the table. Her own part was the second number on the list. But why couldn't it be postponed until later? She must go to Aura. She hastily wrote a note to Monsieur Blaumer explaining her absence, begging him to let her come on for her part later in the evening, and giving him address at Park square. She had just finished the note when the carriage appeared. She threw on her cloak ran out into the hall, not forgetting her violin, and running out to the carriage, called to driver, No. 16, Park square." She sank down on the seat and covered her face with her hands.

"Heaven forgive me!" she thought, "if for one single moment I felt a pang of regret at the possibility of failing to meet my engagement at the concert!"

On reaching Park square she went at once to Aura's room. She was so much at home there that she was accustomed to go and come like one of the family. Mrs. Hardwick and the doctor were both there, and the doctor told Viola all at the first glance. Aura lay motionless and deadly white, her eyes closed, but as Viola came up to the bedside and took her hand her eyes opened and she smiled.

"I knew you would come. But what made you stay away so long? You promised to come in the morning, and here it is dark."

Viola sat down bewildered. The doctor said in a low tone, "She thinks that to-morrow is here already. She has lost one day out of her life. But it will make little difference with her now."

Aura still smiled at Viola. "Have you brought your violin? We can go over the concert here now. It was a great success, wasn't it? Oh, I know it was. Only you are too modest to tell me all. And you played 'O Rest in the Lord,' didn't you? Can't you play it for me now? I have been suffering so much today!"

"Shall I play for her?"

"Yes," replied the doctor. "It may help to lessen her suffering a little."

As Viola took out her violin the clock struck eight. At almost the same moment the bell rang sharply. Mrs. Hardwick came in a moment later with a note for Viola.

"Excuse me a moment, dear Aura," she whispered, went over nearer the light, opened the note and read:

"Miss Carpenter: The reason you give for your absence from the concert is entirely insufficient, and your request to have the concerto postponed to a later number is perfectly absurd. I shall expect you to return to the concert hall with the messenger at once. You have made this engagement with me, and the public expect to see and hear you. There will be great disappointment on many sides if you do not come. This is no time for the exercise of weak sentiment on your part. I cannot answer for your future success as a player if you fail to appear on this occasion. Indeed, I can assure you from what I know of such matters that your future reputation as a musician depends on your action to-night. I beg you, therefore, for your own sake, to come at once." Respectfully yours.

MONSIER BLAUMER.

There was yet time to go. Aura was not in her right mind, Viola said to herself, "besides, if Aura only knew she would forbid my staying here." She was quiet now. Perhaps she would sleep until the concert was over. Viola caught up her instrument and almost turned to go, when the doctor's last words came to her mind—"It may help to lessen her suffering a little!"

"Heaven help me! What a wretch my selfishness was about to make me!" she thought within herself. She crushed the note in her hand, whispered a few words to Mrs. Hardwick, who went out to the messenger, and then stood, pale but quiet, waiting for Aura to show some signs of consciousness. Finally the sufferer opened her eyes and whispered, "I am ready now, dear Vi."

And Viola played as she had never played before. A look of peace crept over the face of the listener. "If you played like that," she said when the last strain had died away, "no wonder they encored you again. I knew they would."

It was a strange scene, a severe experience, but Viola remembered it in after years with feelings of mingled pain and triumph. All that night she remained by the side of that poor soul, sometimes playing to her when the physical agony seemed most violent, and always bringing at least a moment of peace and comfort to the spirit. And when, with the gray of morning, as the great city awoke and the rumble of its coming day's work stole into the house in the square, the end came quietly and with a brief moment of recognition, Viola knew that a braver soul than her own had gone from the suffering earth to suffer no more. And through her own great grief the words of the oratorio came like the echo of an angel's psalm,—

"O rest in the Lord;
Wait patiently for Him,
And he will give thee
Thy heart's desires."

Indigo.

How many children or grown people either know how indigo is made, or what it is made from?

We use a great many things that we really know nothing about, and we never stop to ask ourselves if we have any knowledge of things we use daily. If we made it a practice to learn the nature and mode of manufacture of common household articles, we would soon become remarkably intelligent, well-informed people. Here is a description of an indigo factory:

"Near the city of Allahabad, in India our missionaries may see the little indigo-plant growing, and the factory where our indigo is prepared for use."

The following account of the preparation of the indigo from the plant was given by the proprietor to one who traveled in that country:

"It is the young shoots of the humble little plant which provide us with the precious meterial for dyeing, and not the flowers as is commonly supposed. The gathering of these shoots is a very delicate operation. When they have arrived at a proper degree of maturity, they must be speedily removed, and each cutting must be executed with rapidity, and during the night, for the sun would wither the branches and deprive them of their properties. We therefore require great many hands; all the villages on my estate are placed in requisition. The workmen are all dispersed in the fields at midnight, and in the morning the produce of the harvest is deposited in stone troughs, which have previously been filled with water. Then is the time for the sun to perform its part. Under the influence of its rays the substance undergoes a species of fermentation; the water becomes colored with variegated tinges and rapidly turns blue. After a space of forty-eight hours the liquid is drawn off from the smallest troughs. It now emits a slightly ammoniacal smell, and the color is almost black. It is allowed to evaporate again, and is then placed in metal vats heated by steam, in which when the evaporation has ceased, a deposit of pure indigo is formed. It only remains to dry this deposit, pack it and send it to the market at Calcutta."

Illuminated For Ten Years.

"The heaviest gas bill ever paid by one private customer—for gas furnished to his residence, that is," remarked a gas man, "was one paid a short time ago by Archbishop Kenrick. How big do you suppose it was?"

"I couldn't imagine."

"Something over $780."

"For gas used at his home?"

"Yes, sir."

"How did it happen? Was he illuminating for the President and Mrs. Cleveland?"

"No, it was a case of lost meter. You see each year the records are gone over and brought into a new book, and it sometimes happens, through the carelessness of a clerk or for some other reason, that the transfer to the new book is not properly made. The list of meters in each district is made up and given to the inspectors, and, of course, if a house number does not appear in the inspector's book he does not go into the house to investigate. The only thing there is to go on is the list. He can't go behind the returns. Well, as I am telling you, the meter in the Archbishop's residence was not properly entered, and we knew nothing at all about it until one day one of the members of his household came down and lodged a complaint about the working of the gas in the house. We looked the matter up, and it did not appear that his Grace had any gas or was using any meter. There was nothing on the books to show it. We turned back to last year and there was nothing there and to the year before and there was nothing there; and so the chase was kept all the way back to 1876, when it was evident that some sort of a mistake had been made. Gas had been burning for ten years in the house, and we had known nothing about it. The meter had ground itself completely out so that it could give us no consolation whatever. The matter was brought to the Archbishop's attention, and he at once wrote to the office and told us to make out a bill for whatever might be the proper amount. It was rather a difficult bill to make out; and the only way we could get at it was to take the average of the monthly bills rendered at the house for the last two years of which we had record, compute the account due in that way. It amounted, as I said, to something over $780. His Grace sent in a check the next day, thus having the honor and pleasure of paying the largest individual gas bill on record."

Mental Kitchen Scales.

Ten common-sized eggs weigh one pound.

Soft butter the size of an egg weighs one ounce.

One pint of coffee A sugar weighs twelve ounces.

One quart of sifted flour (well heaped) one pound.

One pint of best brown sugar weighs thirteen ounces.

Two teacups (well heaped) of coffee. A weight one pound.

Two teacups (level) of granulated sugar weigh one pound.

Two teacups of soft butter well packed weigh one pound.

One and one-third pints of powdered sugar weigh one pound.

One tablespoon (well rounded) of soft butter weighs one ounce.

One pint (heaped) of granulated sugar weighs fourteen ounces.

Four teaspoons are equal to one tablespoon.

Two and one-half teacups (level) of the best brown sugar weigh one pound.

Two and three-fourths teacups (level) of powdered sugar weigh one pound.

One tablespoonful (well heaped) granulated coffee A, or best brown sugar, equals one ounce.

Miss Parola says one generous pint of liquid, or one pint of finely chopped meat packed solidly, weighs one pound, which it would be very convenient to remember.

Teaspoons vary in size, and the new ones hold about twice as much as an old-fashioned spoon of thirty years ago. A medium-sized teaspoon contains about a dram.

His Hearthstone is Never Cold.

There is a man living near Danburry, N. C., who forty-five years ago married and determined that so long as he lived his hearthstone should never become cold. To this determination he has adhered with a persistency amounting almost to superstition. He has never slept from home a single night, has never tasted food from any board except his own, and never at any time had a match on his premises. The fire has never been permitted to burn out in his fireplace, nor has he ever used a gill of kerosene oil, bought a pound of candles or anything else for the purpose of lighting his residence, which boasts of only two windows, or rather two holes cut in the logs of which his house is built, about eight by ten inches; the roof is of boards, and has only been replaced three times during the forty-five years. He has been three times married and is the father of fourteen children, all of whom are married but three. He has great-grandchildren, but the number of his descendants we have been unable to learn. He is still in vigorous health and jocularly tells his wife that he expects at her death to marry again and raise another family.—Henry (N. C.) News.

The Shortest Will in the State.

The shortest will on record in the Dauphin county register's office I was shown the other day. About a week ago the will of a man in the upper end of the county was filed, and it was so short as to excite comment. It covered but half a sheet of note paper, and yet the man had put into it all that he cared to and had effectually disposed of his worldly goods and chattels.

"What is the shortest will ever probated here?" I asked the venerable John Fox, who was almost born in the register's office and is pretty certain to die in it.

"The will of Governor Francis R. Shunk," he said, and when I expressed a curiosity to see it, Mr. Fox ran over the index of a big book, put his stepladder against a case, and, clambering up, soon produced a musty document, written in a free, bold hand and signed by Francis F. Shunk. The will covers just six lines of a letter sheet, and in it the Governor bequeathed his all to his wife. It is a model of brevity, but Governor Shunk was a man who did not waste words. He said what he wanted to say and then stopped.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

All Sorts.

A burning shame—a lighted cheap cigarette.

Coal is going up, but the poorly paid miners get no advantage of the rise,

The total product of coffee in the world is about 600,000 to 650,000 tons.

Sixty thousand tons of coal, it is estimated are stolen every year from car transit.

The woman who can control her own tongue is greater than he who ruleth a city. She is also scarcer.

A minister, having some of his old sermons, was asked what he had in his package. "Dried tongue," was his reply.

"Why is it," said a husband to his wife "that married women, as a rule, are such gossipers!" "Because they find such attentive listeners in their husbands," replied the lady easily.

"That is a rather shabby pair of trousers you have on for a man in your position." "Yes, sir; but clothes do not make the man. What if my trousers are shabby and worn? They cover a warm heart, sir."

Husband [desperately]—"Life has no longer any charms for me. I'll kill myself. I'll take poison." Wife [pleasantly]—"Well, if you do take poison, my deer, get the kind that's advertised, 'Don't die in the house.'"

Mamma (to Walter, who has just returned from his first experience with a fishing-rod)—What, back so soon Walter—Yes'm; I thought I'd come home. The worms were so nervous I couldn't get 'em on the hooks.

It may be a question in some minds just when it is best to take the risk of losing a man's friendship by refusing to lend him money. An experienced observer says that he is of the opinion that the average friendship is never worth more than $20.

At breakfast (time, 9 a. m.)—Opulent Avunculus—Edward, I think you ought to get down to the office earlier. Languid Nephew—Oh! as to that, uncle, I have always been of the opinion that the office should seek the man, not the man the office.

"My family is very ancient," remarked an English tourist in Ohio. "It dates back to the Crusades." "So does mine," replied the Buckeye. "My mother was a Crusader herself. And what a noble stand they made against the liquor traffic, too!" "Aw," said the Englishman considerably mystified.

Cause for alarm—"My dear, will you tell me what that object hanging on a chair is?" "Why, that's a shirt I made for you. I did it all myself. Isn't it delightful?" "Oh, yes. So it's a shirt, is it?" "Certainly. But why are you so pale and trembling?" "Oh, I'm all right now, my dear. I thought at first I had 'em again."

A father's privilege: "As your first baby is a boy I suppose you have the privilege of naming it." Young father—"Yes, siree. I wouldn't allow anyone else to name that cherub." "Have you thought of a good name for him yet?" "Dozens of 'em; but they won't any of them do." "Why not?" "My wife won't have 'em."

Busy Father—"My daughter, I must take an early train to-morrow; the alarm clock is out of order, and someone will have to sit up so as to wake me up." Dutiful Daughter—"I'll do it, pa." "My dear, you are a daily and hourly blessing to me. Are you sure you can keep awake?" "Oh, yes; Harry will be here to-night."

Is Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. When He Thought of His Beloved.

He was stroking her hair fondly—she had beautiful hair, which was not overlooked when inscrutable Providence was painting things red—and they were very, very happy. The old folks had gone to bed.

"And during the busy hours of the day George, dear," the girl went on, "do thoughts of me ever come to you? Do you think of me occasionally while immersed in the cares and responsibilities of your busy business life?"

"Do I think of you occasionally?" he replied, with tender reproach. "Yes, indeed I do, love; every time I see a white horse."

What They Did at the High School.

On Friday afternoon there were the usual exercises in the Bellefonte High school. The opening exercise was a musical selection entitled "Chiming Bells," rendered by Fannie Twitmire, Jennie Lukenbach, Charlie Noll, Prof. Johnstonbaugh, Lee Woodcock and Harry Jenkins.

Robert Woodring, '91, declaimed about "American Aristocracy," Ralph Mann '91, read an essay entitled, "The Ostrich." "Necessity of Government" was the theme of a declamation by Samuel Rowe, '91. Paul Snyder, '91, made "Rain" the subject of an essay, and John Bower, '91, declaimed on "The Cumberland."

"The Coin Cabinet of the United States" formed an interesting theme for Herbert A. Loeb, '90, to elaborate into essay length, and then Joseph Guggenheimer '89, in a declamation, gave his hearers a peep at "The Future of Our Country."

Interesting and imaginative was the essay, "Entertained by a Sea Monster," by Willie T. Kelley, '89. Carrie Gross '91, recited about "The Pilot's Wife." Practical and appropriate was the subject of the essay, "Railroads," by Millie Smith '90.

Misses Fannie Twitmire and Jennie Lukenbach sang a duet, "Rose of the Garden," and the verdict is that they can duet very nicely.

Blanche Johnston '90, recited "The Light-keeper's Daughter." Everybody knows now "What Saved the Union" because H. U. Tibbens 89, told them in a declamation. "When our Ship Comes In" was the familiar theme of a recitation by Bessie Dorworth '89. The exercises were seasoned with "Salt" by Clyde L. Blackford in an essay. "Put no flowers on Papa's Grave" was the injunction of the recitation by Jennie Strickland, '88. Charles C. Moore, '88, in an essay, told of the "Death of Hector."

"Imaginary Evils," of which there are many was, recited by Jennie Howley, '88. One of the greatest men in the history of the world, "Napoleon," inspired Lula Stover's, '88, essay. The closing solo by Fannie Twitmire, "Jesus, My Saviour, look on Me," with Jennie Lukenbach at the organ, was the gem of the afternoon.

A Pleasant Gathering.

The Lutheran sociable held at the home of the Misses Olewine, on Thursday evening, was a success in every particular, as had been anticipated. Very early in the evening the guests began to assemble and by 8 o'clock the spacious residence was comfortably full, including both young and old. Their main object was to have a good time and this purpose was more than realized.

Almost the entire evening was devoted to amusements, including all the games which are especially diverting in their character. The house was musical with peals of merry laughter. About 9 o'clock, Dr. J. W. Rhone's close observation led him to the conclusion, in which all coincided, that some of the young ladies and gentlemen were becoming weak and needed refreshments. He accordingly announced that an attack would be made on the stores of good things. The young ladies led the attack and did the most effective execution. Oysters, stewed and fried, disappeared with wonderful rapidity, and their rate was only exceeded by the ice cream, cake and bananas, which went in the same direction.

Al. Dale, Esq., devoted so much of his time to the amusement of a child that public attention was called to the fact. Then he remarked that the girl babies always had a special affection for him. This may be so. We wonder how it is with girls of increased years?

After supper there was music so excellent as to contribute yet further to the pleasure and entertainment. At a late hour the company separated, homeward bound, feeling more than repaid for the time they had devoted to social life.

Had Come Down in the World.

From the Merchant Traveler.

"This cold weather has knocked things entirely, hasn't it?" remarked the summer proprietor to his clerks.

"Yes, it has, but then that is to be expected."

"Of course, of course; but it does seem hard to undergo the ups and downs of this life,"

"It is hard; only a month or so ago I was standing behind the desk welcoming Wall street kings and chatting with senators by the dozens."

"Yes," said the proprietor with a sigh, "and now you are no better than I am, are you?"

Nearly all the recent telescopes are refractors; the largest is the one for the Lick observatory, California, having an aperture of 30 inches; among the other large ones are that of Pultowa, Russia, lately made by the Clarks, of Cambridge, Mass., object glass 76 centimeters; Nice, also 76; Paris, 73.5; Vienna, 68.5; Washington, 66; and the McCormick telescope, 66. The latest reflecting telescope of importance is that of Common, erected at Ealing, England; it has a silver on glass reflector of 37½ inches diameter, and has proved to be a powerful instrument.

NEW YORK DEMOCRATIC.

Massachusetts Republican—Virginia Claimed by Democrats.

Special to the DAILY NEWS.

NEW YORK, November 9, 1887, 1.46 a. m.—Colonel Fellows, Democrat, is elected district attorney over Nicholl, Republican and Independent, by about 20,000 plurality.

The Democrats will have about 60,000 plurality below Harlem river. In Brooklyn George polled 15 000, while in the State his vote was much smaller than was expected by the leaders of the old parties, the Prohibitionists polling nearly four votes to one for George. The returns are meagre and confused from much scratching, but the returns indicate a Democratic ma ority.

Ames, Republican, is elected Governor of Massachusetts. Virginia is claimed by the Democrats, being a defeat for Mahone.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9, 1887.—The vote in this city on Secretary of State is: Cook 113 653; Grant, 58 624; George 35,933; Hall, Progressive Labor, 5,189.

CHAAFER.

Philadelphia.

Special to Altoona Tribune.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9.—William R. Leeds, Republican candidate for Sheriff of Philadelphia concedes the election of Krumbhaar by almost 8,000. To the strong disaffection in the German wards and the unexpected development of the personal liberty movement is attributed the defeat of the Republican ticket. The state ticket is claimed by the Republicans by not less than 35,000. George Pierie, Republican candidate for recorder of deeds, is elected by 20,000 or more and leads the ticket. The Republican candidate for county commissioner are both elected by slightly less majorities than Pierie.

Two surprises, however, have been witnessed in this stronghold of republicanism. In Hamilton Disston's own ward, the 29th, where Tax Receiver Clay had a majority of 1,300 at the February election, Leeds was beaten by 500 majority. This is the most crushing defeat, as Disston was for Leeds from the beginning and claimed a majority for him. Here is Brewerytown and to the strong personal liberty movement along the Schuylkill river front is attributed the election of the democratic candidate. The Twentieth ward, long known as the home of republican office-holders and of of Leader David H. Lane, the acknowledged friend of Leeds, gave a majority of over 50 for the democatic ticket. In the Tenth ward, also a strong republican ward, the German element went against the ticket to the enormous aggregate of over 1 100. The First ward, also a republican stronghold, went against Leeds by 200 majority. The crushing defeat of Maloney, the candidate for controller, is also conceded. He ran behind Leeds in almost every ward.

THE PRESS.

Foraker Elected.

CINCINNATI November 8.—The absence of the union labor vote of 1885 and its large proportion in Ciocinnati causes an increase in the net republican gain in this county out of proportion to the total vote. Where the labor vote has drawn more heavily from the democrats than from the republicans, which is usually the case, the republican gain is increased, though the republican total may be decreased. Eleven precincts in Ohio give a net republican gain of 1,923—Foraker 16.700, Powell 10,835, Seits 2,949, Sharp 868.

Four hundred and twenty eight precincts in Ohio give a republican gain of 5, 074 in a total vote of 134,394. The greater portion of this gain is in Hamilton county, while the remainder of the state is nearly evenly balanced. If the same rate is maintained Foraker's plurality will be from 20,000 to 25,000.

Seven hundred and forty-nine precincts in Ohio give a net republican gain of 5,497 in a total vote of 348,882. The indications still point to a plurality of from 23.000 to 25,000 for Foraker.

The Result in Maryland.

BALTIMORE, November 9.—The indications at 1 o'clock this morning indicate that the majority for F. C. Jackson, democrat, for governor, will be from 10,000 to 12,000 over Walter B. Brooks, republican, and for W. P. Whyte, democrat, for attorney general, over Francis Miller, republican, and Victor L. Baughman, democrat, for comptroller, over R. B. Dixon, republican, will be about the same. The legislature will be largely democratic in both branches. The prohibition vote was very small.

A CLEAN SWEEP.

Nearly all the Republican Candidates Elected in the County.

THE DEMOCRATS SAVE ONLY ONE OR TWO FROM THE WRECK.

The latest returns from the county render it certain that Rhoads for Associate judge, Cooke for Sheriff and Henderson for commissioner are elected by handsome majorities and the probabilities are that nearly all the other Republicans candidates have good majorities. We cannot give accurate figures at present. It is a great victory and should make every true Republican rejoice.

The plurality for McGrann, on the State ticket is 171; that for Thompson 131.

Tuesday was unusually beautiful for an election day, and the temperature was surprisingly mild. The excitement was not great, but there were the usual disagreeable features of such occasions. Judging by the number of drunks whiskey ran like water and dozens of men became brutes in consequence. The vote did not come in fast, but an average vote was polled. The South and West wards of this borough were counted first, Daniel Rhoads being the only Republican on the ticket that carried that strong Democratic ward. The North ward was counted slowly and the returns from Spring and Benner townships were learned definitely only at a very late hour. Early in the evening it was known that Mr. Rheads' majority in the borough was 260, and the intelligence was particularly pleasing. The vote for Cooke was obtained among the earliest and the enormous gain made by him in strong Democratic districts gave proof that he was elected. We give herewith such of the vote as has been received:

The Votes in the Counties.

Union county—Hart 600 plurality, a republican gain of 134. The entire republican ticket is elected in the county. The prohibition vote is about 100.

Potter county—Hart 500 plurality, a republican gain of 119. Williams 530 plurality.

Elk county—McGrann 575 plurality democratic gain of 353

York county—McGrann 2,000 plurality, a republican gain of 349. Thompson 2,000 plurality.

Mifflin county—Hart 40 plurality, a republican gain of 39; Williams 40 plurality.

Tioga county—Hart, republican, for state treasurer, 2,500 plurality, a democratic gain of 380. Williams, republican, for supreme judge, 2, 500 plurality.

Clearfield county—From fifty-five districts in Clearfield county seven districts have been heard from. These give McGrann a plurality of sixty-one and Thompson sixty. This is a democratic gain over the vote in 1885.

Clinton county—The democratic majority on the state ticket 600. The republicans elect Leahy sheriff, and the democrats their county treasurer.

Pennsylvania.

PHILADELPHIA, November 9.—2.30 A. M.—The state, with nineteen counties still to hear from, gives Hart, republican, for state treasurer, 27,242 plurality. Those to come will increase this to about 33,000 plurality. These figures include both Philadelphia and Allegheny counties.

PHILADELPHIA, November 8.—This city, with one ward to hear from, gives Hart, republican, for state treasurer 14,182 majority; Krumbhaar, democrat, for shoriff, 6,232 majority, and Dechert, democrat, for controller, 7,388 majority. The ward still to hear from will not affect the figures for sheriff and controller in any marked degree. Pierie, republican, for register is elected by a large majority.

The Sunday Question.

We do not know why we should refrain from writing on this subject, although our views are much more radical and extreme than those of nine tenths of the people. The Sunday subject seems of prime importance, and it is because its importance is not realized that there is a carelessness regarding it which amounts to criminality.

It is selfishness and grasping greed which has led the people of the Nation to believe that so many things which tend to destroy the Sabbath are necessary. The idea that they must, on Sunday, read of the occurrences of Saturday, keeps up the abominable Sunday newspaper. The idea that fresh meats, ice cream, etc., are necessary on Sunday leads to the sale of those articles. The idea that people must ride gives reason for open liveries and passing street cars. The plea that perishable goods must be hastened onward influences the railroads to run passenger and freight trains.

All these are violations of the laws of God and opposed to the true interests of the people.

They are more enormous sins than what is usually known as the drink traffic.

The Scriptural idea of the Sabbath is rest and spiritual profit, works of necessity and mercy alone being permitted.

It is not necessary to read secular news on Sunday—indeed, to do so is wrong. It is not necessary to eat fresh meats or creams, because it is proven that people who possess the best health abstain entirely from these things. It is not necessary to ride even to a religious meeting. If you cannot walk it will be much more pleasing to God to remain at home.

The reason for all the above is because to permit them compels someone to work. To the boys who cry the Sunday newspaper, the men who run the train and the men in the livery the day becomes one of regular work. To them it is not different from other days.

Its evil effects on laboring men is that the increased regard for the sacredness of the Sabbath will lead employers to believe that their employes can work then as well as other days. In time this will cause open workshops in all directions; men will work indiscriminately; and a condition of ceaseless labor, with absolutely no recreation, will be the result. The pockets of the rich will be filled at the expense of the souls of men as well as their physical deterioration. Does it look any thing? If not then unite in a movement to compel the observance of Sunday.

REV. MR. SPURGEON, perhaps the greatest preacher in the world—certainly the one who has the highest reputation—has withdrawn from what is known as the Baptist Union, because he believes the Union contains too much laxness of religious belief and error to permit him remaining a part of it. We congratulate Mr. Spurgeon in this act. We are glad that the most eminent theologians are maintaining firmly what are known as orthodox doctrines. The denial of certain doctrines which are considered severe to accommodate Scripture to man's faith and uncertain ideas of right is unworthy the church. Mr. Spurgeon is higher in our estimation than ever before.

Not a Paradise.

The Altoona Tribune has received a circular which "shows up" that famed country, Southwestern California in a new light. We know it will be of interest to our readers who have had the slightest touch of California fever.

From it, it would seem that Southern California is not such a paradise for the poor mechanic as it has been represented to be. The circular says:

Just now Southern California is being extensively advertised as the "promised land" of the poor, ill-paid, slave of labor. In nearly all the paragraphs going the rounds of the press there is such a misrepresentation of facts, such barefaced falsehoods in regard to wages and the demand for labor, that we have taken upon ourselves to refute them, and thus save hundreds of families from ruin. The culminating point was reached by a special dispatch sent by some scoundrel in our midst to the Boston Globe It appeared in that journal on the 11th of October, and has been copied by nearly every eastern paper. The entire dispatch is a lie from beginning to end. Already the plot is bearing its bitter fruit. A stream of mechanics and laborers have poured into the city whose ranks are daily being swelled by fresh accessions. Having expended their last dollar for railroad fare, they rush around from one job to another offering to work for anything they can get. The scenic grandeur fails to impress them, and they find our "glorious climate" a rather thin diet to subsist on. We, therefore, ask the eastern press to aid us in arresting this hegira, and we earnestly entreat them to publish the warning.

If such a term be applicable to the "boom" now surging throughout southern California, we can safely assert that such is genuine. * * * There really seems to be no limit to the profitable investment of capital, for California is a vast storehouse which needs but that magic "open sesame" to yield all the necessaries of life. But with the capital, must also come laborers, both skilled skilled and unskilled, and when the ratio has not yet been disproportionate the latter have been able to maintain themselves in tolerable comfort. Periodically, however, and more often at this time of the year, the market has been overcrowded, and only a small number of them have secured the great boon of all workingmen, "a home free and uncumbered." Most of them live from hand to mouth. Rents are enormously high; a cottage of four room rents from $25 to $50 a month. Coal is $16 a ton, butter 40 cents, eggs 40 cents and other things in proportion. The average of wages is about 50 cents per day more than eastern wages, but the cost of living more than counterbalances. Out of doors labor can be pursued for about ten months in the year; but the man who attempts it is sure to break down. Tropical climate will not permit an unceasing round of hard manual labor. There is a gradual and stealthy undermining process which the victim heeds generally after it is too late to repair the evil. The El Dorado of him who has but his two brawny arms to eke out an existence is not here. We, your fellow workmen, know whereof we speak, therefore heed our warning.

Baldness.

Scientific journals continue to explore from time to time for a universal reason for bald heads, and a writer in one of them has lately declared that men are bald only because they wear stiff and close-fitting hats which compress the blood vessels of the scalp and prevent proper nourishment of the hair roots. It is a theory marked by the weakness which distinguishes the bulk of generalizations. The prophet whom the boys mocked was bald before stiff hats were in vogue, and men were bald in quarters of the world which the hat of civilization has never invaded. Doubtless some men are made blad by their hats, but all baldness is no more to be charged to them than it is to be charged to the North American Indians.

THE September reports of the railroad business throughout the country are exceedingly gratifying and they show an activity during the month upon these great arteries of the country which is indicative of a beautiful condition of trade. The Pennsylvania Railroad had much heavier traffic in both freight and passenger trains than during the same month last year, the same is true of its great competitors. The Reading Railroad's business in coal carrying was extraordinary but this, it is true, was under unusual circumstances. Elsewhere, however, even where transient influences were against them, the roads have done heavy business. There is no better indicator of the condition of trade in the country than the railroads, they respond most promptly to its varations and are always to be depended upon as reliable.

Beecher's Successor.

It begins to look as if a successor to the late Rev. Henry Ward Beecher will soon be chosen by Plymouth Church. Among the most prominent and certainly the one most talked of is Rev. Charles A. Berry, of Wolverhampton, England.

The advisory committee of the church, having charge of the subject of a successor to Mr. Beecher, met on Friday evening and unanimously voted to recommend Mr. Berry. While this does not bind the church, there is little doubt but that the choice of the committee will be ratified, inasmuch as the sentiment in the congregation is strongly set in the same direction—so strongly, indeed, that the committee's action is virtually dictated by the universally expressed desire.

The remarkable feature of Mr. Berry's preaching has been its acceptability to all, and the action of the advisory committee is simply a recognition of the fact that the approval of Mr. Berry is unanimous and enthusiastic. There is no divided sentiment, and some of the members have been almost afraid to let Mr. Berry get out of the country without being called. So far as his pulpit presence and utterances were concerned, the satisfaction of the congregation was complete.

He showed clearly that his thinking was strongly on the lines and in the direction of Mr. Beecher, while there was not the slightest indication of imitating Mr. Beecher. This was a great pleasure to the congregation, for what was most decidedly not wanted in Mr. Beecher's successor, whoever he might be, was an attempted imitation of the great original, which Plymouth church recognized gratefully it had had, and recognized regretfully it never could have again. Mr. Berry is now 35 years of age. He took his first charge at the age of 22.

REPORTS of another conspiracy against the life of the Czar of Russia have been published in Paris. The public has become so used to these rumors, and to the punishment of alleged conspirators, that new conspiracies hardly attract attention. It is doubtful, however, that the Czar has lost interest. He will probably always continue to regard conspiracy quite worthy of attention and by far more important than the severest attack of measles.

Philipsburg Again.

Talk of weddings. There was no end to them in Philipsburg last week. Both rich and poor participated.

The boot and shoe establishment of P. E. Smith, corner Front and Laurel streets, has been purchased by S. A. Crum, of Mt, Pleasant, Westmoreland county. The new proprietor is one of those fellows that make friends by the score, and we welcome Mr. Crum to our town.

For a good newspaper, we do think the Daily News in its present size and style, is hard to surpass. Everybody in our town could and should take it.

The wedding on Tuesday of last week in the Presbyterian church, the contracting parties being Mr. John Mason and Miss Cynthia Morgan, is deserving of more than a passing notice. The bride and groom are now en route for England, the former home of Mr. Mason. The bride is a daughter of Mr. J. H. Morgan, of Seventh street. The wedding was a delightful affair, the ceremony being solemized by that excellent divine Rev. Samuel A. Cornelius, who doeth all things in a right manner.

A game of foot-ball is to be played in Philipsburg between the Houtzdale and DuBois teams next Saturday. Persons who appreciate such sports should not fail to be in attendance. Will take place in the park grounds.

There is rather a fine class of Hungarians working around these parts just now. They seem to be far above the average of those heathen.

Work on the new watch factory will be started at once. The officers have been elected and are a good corps. Such men as H. K. Grant, and W. M. E. Irvin, don't go into things blind-folded, now mind that. The new enterprise will employ a great many men.

The correspondent to Grit wants manager Herd to get the Al. G. Fields & Co's minstrels back to Philipsburg again this winter. Nothing would please our show-going people more.

Our young friend, James Gonder, met with a very great loss the other day. He is, or was a breakman of the Jerk-Water express, and in making a coupling above Houtzdale, was so unfortunate as to get his foot under the wheels and have it so severely mashed that amputation was necessary. Everybody is very sorry at this young man's misfortune, as he is a general favorite and a pleasant young gentleman. He is doing as well as could be expected.

Hugh Adams' new store room, corner Second and Spruce streets is now operated as a first-class dry goods and furnishing store, Mr. H. Govner, proprietor.

SOME ONE.

Knights of the Golden Eagle.

The time for the acceptances of nominations for the various posts in the Grand Castle, of Pennsylvania, to be filed, expired on November 1st. The election will occur in each of the 224 subordinate Castles in Pennsylvania, at the last session in December next. Only Past Chiefs, in good standing, of whom there are 2375, are entitled to vote.

The candidates are:

For Grand Chief—Louis E. Stiltz, of Philadelphia.

For Grand Vice Chief—A. C. Lyttle, of Altoona.

For Grand High Priest—E. W. Clevenger, of Philadelphia.

For Grand Keeper of Exchequer—Charles A. Bickel, of Philadelphia.

For Grand Trustee—William A. Weigel, of Royersford.

For Representative to the Supreme Castle—Edward S. Rowand, and C. G. Simmon, of Philadelphia.

This Order has been and is very successful. During 1886, eighty-four Castles were instituted in Pennsylvania, and during this year seventy two Castles have been instituted. The membership in this State exceeds 25,000.

Pensions Granted Last Week.

Pensions have been granted to the following persons residing in this part of the state: George C, Leader, Bedford; Aaron Shaffer, Stoyestown, Somerset county; Daniel Miller, Milroy, Mifflin county; William H. Wighaman (deceased) Tyrone; Noah Shawley, Ligonier; John W. Kern, Waterloo, Juniata county; William W. Paul, Summerhill; Mary Ann, widow of James Norris, Three Springs, Huntingdon county; David Weaverling, Hopewell; Calvin Waltz, Pleasant Gap; Samuel Mitchell, Patterson, Juniata county; Charles McDermott, Mines, Blair county; Daniel Sharp, Reynoldsville; Solomon Beyer, Ramey, Clearfield county; Joseph Berlin, Latrobe; Francis Larimer Station; Nicholas, father of James S. Kline, Hopewell.

—A fair will be held during the week between Christmas and New Years, for the benefit of the Logan Hose Company. The place has not yet been chosen, but we make the announcement for the purpose of preparing people for it, and to keep all others off the track at that particular time. Let it be regarded as the week for the Logan Hose Company. While we are at this subject we desire to call the attention of the many lady friends of the Logans to the fact that they will want a large variety of fancy articles for that occasion. Put your heads and wits together to see who can prepare the best articles.

Convention In Behalf of Foreign Missions.

The following is the order of exercises in the Convention in behalf of Foreign Missions to be held in the Presbyterian Church in this place to-day November tenth. Morning Session from half past ten o'clock to twelve. Addresses will be from fifteen to twenty five minutes in length. The Rev. George Ellictt, of Unionville, the Rev. J. R. Davis, of Tyrone, and the Rev. Loyal Y. Hays, of Mifflintown will be the speakers at the morning session. Afternoon Session from three to five o'clock. The addresses in the afternoon will be delivered by the Rev. Dr. Hamill, of Lemont, the Rev. J. H. Kerr, of Centre Hall, and the Rev. J. W. Bain, of Altoona. Evening Session from seven o'clock to adjournment. Addresses for the evening will be by the Rev. Joseph C. Kelley, of Pennsylvania Furnace, and the Rev. Arthur Mitchell, D. D., of New York City, one of the Secretaries of the Board of Foreign Missions. It is possible that Dr. Mitchell may occupy the whole evening. As the work of missions is not simply a Presbyterian work but something in which all the churches are interested and engaged, we invite all who are interested in the work of Foreign Missions to attend the sessions of the Convention.

WILLIAM LAURIE.

—A general order has just been issued by G. A. R. department commander Harper in which he announces with gratification the unusual success attending the reunions of the veterans and comrades during the present year. He says: "In view of the fact that the department commander in his semi-annual address spoke of the great hero of Gettysburg, and at a later date invited the comrades of the department to unite in the ceremonies incident to the unveiling of the equestrian statue to that model soldier in Fairmount park, Philadelphia, on the 18th ult., he is sure that no apology will be needed for returning thanks for the unexpectedly large number of comrades who responded to that invitation. In numbers, in enthusiasm and all the qualities that make the Grand Army great in the estimation and love of the people, the demonstration was not only an honor and a credit to the department, but a fitting and well-merited tribute to the memory of General G. Meade."

Musicale at the College.

There is to be a musicale at the State College, on Wednesday evening, November 9, at 7.30 p. m. It will be held in the College Chapel and will be under the direction of Miss Julia E. Gorsline, the instructor in music. We publish the programme below:

—Two of Wilson's largest No. 4 boilers, for supplying steam heat, have been put in the "annex" to the Bush Arcade building to heat the interior of that structure. Mr. Callaway has determined to do his level best to render the tenants of that elegant and substantial building perfectly comfortable. With this object in view he will put in the building every modern convenience. The Wilson boilers come from Westfield, N. Y., and are supplied by the Logan Machine Works of this place.

—A bear has caused excitement, the past few days, all along the line of the Buffalo Run Railroad. We heard from it at Hunter's station. On Monday morning a child saw it in John Reeser's meadow. The little one said that the bear (or dog, as the child supposed it was,) sprang upon a hog, injuring it. The folks of that vicinity are looking for his Bearship and Sir Bruin will do well to make himself "scarce."

—General Manager Pugh, of the Pennsylvania railroad company, has awarded the first prize of $100 to James R. Smith, supervisor of division B, on the New York division, for the best piece of track upon the road. The second prize of $50 was given to George W. King, supervisor of division No. 5, of the middle division. The supervisors' divisions are from twenty-five to thirty miles long.

—A special notice has been given us, for publication, regarding the proposed sociable to be held under the auspices of the Woman's Guild of the Episcopal church, at the residence of Mr. Thos. R. Reynolds' this (Thursday) evening. We can assure our friends that it will be a very interesting and delightful gathering. All are invited to be present.

A Fine Instrument.

On Monday morning while waiting for the train East, Mr. W. A. Brown stopped with us long enough to show us his "New Wonder" Cornet, which is indeed a fine instrument. Mr. Brown claims this the best cornet he ever used and has adopted it exclusively. The cornet was made by the Cown M'f'g Co, Worcester, Mass. The tones are brilliant, free, and full, yet possess a richness which baffles the sharpest ear to distinguish from the human voice The possessor and manufacturer challenge the world to produce a finer instrument.

Mr. Brown's reputation as a cornet soloist and band instructor extends over the State and with the addition of this truly fine cornet new laurels await him. He has all he can do at present, having just returned from a trip West in the capacity of soloist. Mr. Brown is a self-made young man and Centre county can well be proud of him in the musical line as he stands at the head as a cornet soloist. He is at present contemplating the organization of a fine band to be known as Brown's Military Band. Success to him.

—The early morning at this season has beauties which are especially its own. The dark blue sky is studded with stars and the moon sheds a flood of silver sheen. The frost glistens like diamonds. Slowly a different kind of light is seen in the east. It seems that the stars are losing their brightness and the moonlight perceptibly fades. This change continues as the light in the east strengthens and spreads until it is certain that this new light in the firmament must take the place of the lesser glories of the moon and stars. At length the round sun, as the central, radiating figure of that new and greater splendor appears above the horizon and, verily, night is changed to day. The landscape is seen, not in the fitful, uncertain, mysterious light and shadow which the moonlight seems to give, but with a distinctness which dispels all unreality. What seemed like glistening diamonds are changed into a white carpet of frost. But the same light which shows what it is slowly absorbs it until it disappears.

Everywhere you go, you are certain to hear of the wonderful virtues of Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup. All druggists sell it at 25 cents a bottle.

Everywhere the Same.

Wherever Gilmore's Magnetic Elixir is introduced it leads all other remedies for the cure of coughs, colds, hoarseness, bronchitis, and all affections of the throat and lungs. It will relieve the worst case of asthma in one minute. Regular physicians endorse it as a first class specific for the purposes for which it is prepared. Barnard Salisbury, of Humphrey Centre, Cattaraugus Co., N. Y., writes:—"I have tried it in my family and find it splendid. We keep it constantly on hand and would not keep house without it." At this season of the year all persons are liable to a cold, which one or two small doses of Gilmore's Magnetic Elixir will relieve at once.

COLLIDED IN THE DARK.

MANY PERSONS INJURED AND ONE MAN KILLED.

A "Wild Cat" Train Crashes Into a Passenger at Secaucus, N. J.—A Frightful Accident Barely Averted—Scenes of Confusion.

SECAUCUS, N. J., Nov. 9.—An accident attended by fatal results, and which, but for the merest chance, might have been one of the most appalling in extent of disaster that has ever taken place in this neighborhood, occurred Monday evening on the New York, Lake Erie and Western railroad at the station here. One man was killed and ten or twelve others were injured, some very seriously. This station, which was the scene of the accident, is not far from a bridge over the Hackensack which is undergoing repairs. A new draw and some new tracks are being laid in connection with the bridge, and at present only one track is used in crossing on account of the changes.

On account of the laying of new switches train No. 23, due at this place at 6:30 p. m., when it drew out of the station here under Conductor Thompson did not at once resume full speed. According to Engineer Jake Berry's statement train No. 42, which was not scheduled to stop here and which was directly behind, waited fully twelve minutes for the train in front to get out of the way. At all events his train when started soon overtook train No. 23 and crashed into the latter, splitting the woodwork into kindling wood and completely telescoping it. The train which ran into No 23 was a "wild cat" one was going at full speed. The night was very dark and the cries of the terrified passengers and the shrieks of the wounded were terrible to listen to. At first it was thought that there was great loss of life, and it was almost by a miracle that only one man was killed. The promptitude of Mike Burns, a fireman of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western road, and a resident of this place, probably averted a greater catastrophe. When Engineer Berry, seeing that a collision was unavoidable, jumped from the engine just before she struck, Burns jumped on the cab and instantly reversed the lever. By this means at least a dozen lives were saved. The fireman was rendered senseless by the shock, but soon recovered.

The man who was killed was John Donnelly, a lineman, who was returning to his home in Jersey City. His body was found wedged between the front of the engine and the last car, and he had been terribly scalded by escaping steam. It is said that when the rescuing party started with axes to hack at the wreck in order to get the body out the conductor shouted to them not to injure the car, being apparently more anxious about the property of the company than to get the body out. It took nearly an hour to get it out, as it was jammed in among baggage, broken timber and the stove. The train had its full complement of passengers, and when the collision took place they were jerked forward with such force that some of them were thrown over the front seats.

The list of injured included the following:

Bellmain, Miss, Passaic, arm broken and bruised about the body.

Donohue, William, Paterson, face and head bruised.

Kellogg, Miss, face bruised.

Rogers, Charles, West Rutherford, fracture of ribs.

Warner, George, bruised about body.

One of the passengers of the wrecked train, who was on board at the time, said today:

"The evening was very dark, though the night was fine, and when the crash came the blinding glare of the headlight of the engine made it impossible to distinguish anything. At first I thought nearly every passenger on the train must be killed or wounded, and never will I forget the agonizing cries of the people around me. I was thrown forward with such force that I was stunned for a minute or two, and on coming to found myself surrounded with the wreckage of the car. I consider the escape of so many little short of a miracle."

As usual, the question, "Who is to blame?" is unsettled—some fixing the responsibility on Engineer Berry, and others saying that Conductor Tupton ought to have sent out a brakeman with a red light to stop the coming train when he found there was any delay. A delay of some hours was caused to the outgoing trains.

Two Desperadoes Caught.

RIO GRANDE CITY, TEX., Nov. 9.—Adolfo De Leon and Chico Pelon, two bandit chiefs, the worst of all the gang that have been committing depredations in this section, have been captured in Mexico by the troops under command of Capt. Salt Rheum

The agonies of those who suffer from severe salt rheum are indescribable. The cleansing, healing, purifying influences of Hood's Sarsaparilla are unequalled by any other medicine.

"I take pleasure in recommending Hood's Sarsaparilla, for it has done wonders for me. I had salt rheum very severely, affecting me over nearly my entire body. Only those who have suffered from this disease in its worst form can imagine the extent of my affliction. I tried many medicines, but failed to receive benefit until I took Hood's Sarsaparilla. Then the disease began to subside, the disappeared, and now I am entirely free from the disease. My blood seems to be thoroughly purified, and my general health is greatly benefited." LYMAN ALLEN, Sexton N. E. Church, North Chicago, Ill.

"My son had salt rheum on his hands and the calves of his legs, so bad that they would crack open and bleed. He took Hood's Sarsaparilla and is entirely cured." J. B. STANTON, Mt. Vernon, Ohio.

From 108 to 135

"I was seriously troubled with salt rheum for three years, and receiving no benefit from medical treatment I decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I am now entirely cured of salt rheum; my weight has increased from 108 lbs. to 135." MRS. ALICE SMITH, Stamford, Conn.

If you suffer from salt rheum, or any blood disease, try Hood's Sarsaparilla. It has cured many others, and will cure you.

Beautiful Teeth

Are more to be desired than riches; in fact, they insure health, by properly performing mastication. Minot's Dentifrice—price 25 cents—is the finest in the world. It beautifully whitens the teeth, and insures healthy gums. Sold everywhere.

A Matter of Taste.

A scientific journal has an article headed: "How to Taste." We have not had time to read it, but our own idea is that it depends a great deal on what you are going to taste. If it is quinine or caster oil or anything of that sort it won't require any previous training or a university education to enable you to taste all you want in one brief hasty swallow. But if it is something real good; something that you like better and get less of than any other man in America, you want a neck two yards long, full of all sorts of back stops and dampers all the way down. That is the theory of an unlettered man who tastes by main strength and natural selection, and if science thinks she has a better way we'd like to trot her one heat, anyhow, just for fun.—Burdette.

He Felt Reassured.

From the Merchant Traveler.

"Have you seen papa's new dog, Carlo?" she asked, as they sat in the parlor.

"Yes," he replied, uneasily, "I have had the pleasure of meeting the dog."

"Isn't he splendid? He is so affectionate!"

"I noticed that he was very demonstrative," returned he, as he moved uneasily in his chair.

"He is very playful, too. I never saw a more playful animal in my life."

"I am glad to hear you say that."

"Why?"

"Because I was a little bit afraid that when he bit that piece out of me the other evening he was in earnest. But if he was only in play of course it's all right. I can take fun as well as anybody."

Purity of Grape Products.

The scarcity of pure and reliable wines has kept them out of the reach of those in moderate circumstances. Mr. Alfred Speer, of Passaic, N. J., who has spent thirty two years in cultivating and acclimatinz the Port Wine Grape vines from Portugal, and establishing his vineyards, produces the best wine in America. For sale by druggists.

Probably Fatally Injured.

ALTOONA, Nov. 3.—A young man named Grant Morgan, a resident of East Conemaugh and a brakeman on the night shifter in the yard there, met with an accident about 12 o'clock Tuesday night which will in all probability cost him his life. The Johnstown Tribune gives the following account of the accident: A freight train, in charge of Extra-Conductor Gordon, westward bound, which arrived at the East Conemaugh yard shortly before the time above mentioned, had twelve cars of stone for that station, and when one of the cars was dropped down the track to be coupled to shifter No. 308, Morgan attempted to do the coupling. In the performance of this duiy he had to raise the draw head, as it was too low, and while doing it he lost his footing and fell and was caught between the car and engine. His fellow-trainmen hastened to his assistance and removed him to his home, where medical aid was given him. His collar-bone was broken, and one part of the bone was forced through his flesh and clothing until it protruded three or four inches outside his coat. A large lacerated wound was found in his left breast, and through it the heart could be plainly seen.

Old Stoves Must Go.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 2.—All the passenger cars of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad are now warmed by a patent heater, and it has been decided to remove the old stoves from the baggage cars and use the heater for them also. The railroad commissioners of the State were given by the legislature power to regulate the heating of cars on the railroads of the State after to-day, and it is expected that an order will be issued forbidding the use of stoves. The Consolidated road has anticipated such an order.

The system on the consolidated road is to be improved by the addition of a steel enclosure, by means of which the coals cannot escape after the most severe shaking up. Vice President Reed says that on a few trains a steam heating system has been tried but it fails to give satisfaction. The steam, which comes from the locomotive, heats the first two or three cars of the train well enough, but not those at the rear. Mr. Reed thinks if the cars could be heated before the trains are made up it would be feasible to keep them warm by steam from the engines.

NEW YORK, November 4.—Ex-Mayor Edward Cooper has received the following letter from President Cleveland:

EXECUTIVE MANSION, WASHINGTON, November 2.—Hon. Edward Cooper—My Dear Sir. I don't think the newspaper clippings you send and which are now before me amount to enough to even raise a doubt concerning my desire for the success of both the state and city of New York local tickets in the coming election. You know that I am very much inclined to abstain from any interference with the New York city campaign, fully believing people of that city to be quite competent to manage their affairs. It surely ought not to be considered any interference, however, when I say in reply to your letter that the newspapers extracts which you enclose totally misrepresent my wishes and hopes in regard to the fate of your democratic local ticket. I shall be very much pleased to see it successful. I know nothing which if I were a voter in the city of New York would prevent my support of Fellow's candidacy without the least misgivings as to his fitness and with considerable personal satisfaction. Please present my congratulations to Hewitt upon his excellent letter published this morning.

Yours, very truly,
GROVER CLEVELAND.

A Red-Nosed Woman's Revenge.

Chicago Mail.

A fashionably dressed lady with very haughty demeanor crowded her way into a Cottage Grove avenue car. There was a bit of vacancy on one side, near by which sat an elderly woman, plainly dressed, but with a red-nose. The fashionably attired lady had red hair. It matched the elderly lady's nose perfectly. A section of the elderly lady's wrap was spread out on the vacant spot on the seat. The woman with the red hair shoved this section of the wrap to one side in a manner that justified the suspicion that she had a temper which was her master. The action attracted attention of several people, who smiled. The elderly lady with a red nose maintained her dignity. In a few minutes a poor washerwoman with a bundle of clothes boarded the car and stood, but only a moment. The woman with the red nose pulled the folds of the dress of the washerwoman and said; "Have my seat." The washerwoman accepted it, and her bundle obtruded into the lap of the fashionably attired woman with red hair, who "looked daggers." The elderly lady with the red nose signaled the conductor to stop, and, as she was leaving the car, stopped long enough to say in a voice that everybody on the car heard, "I am the white horse." The fashionably dressed woman's face looked like a spot where a mustard plaster had got in its work, and she got off at the next corner.

Dr. Woods and wife, of Boalsburg are visiting in Harrisburg and Gettysburg.

Mr. George Potter, brother of James Potter, of the hardware store has been appointed master mechanic of the Fort Wayne railroad shops.

Miss Alpha Corman has about concluded that it will be impossible for her to depart for California until next Spring. She will not give up the intention of going, however.

Rev. R. C. Crittenden went away on the 9.30 train on Saturday. He goes to the northern part of Clinton county. His mission is to help some Sunday schools in that locality and to encourage them to keep open during the winter.

Miss Lulu Hoy and Miss Fannie Elmore, two particularly bright ten-year-old maidens of Bellefonte, departed on Friday afternoon, after school, to visit the former's grandparents. First, they went to the home of Grandpa P. L. Barnhart at Curtin's Station, and then to the farm of Grandpa Hoy. They returned in time for school on Monday.

Mr. Edward K. Bean, of Philadelphia, is now a clerk in W. S. Zeller's drug store. He has had twelve years' experience in the business and hence is thoroughly competent. He is also a graduate of the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy. Mr. Zeller is fortunate in having secured the services of such an experienced and efficient clerk and the many patrons of his drug store can be confident that the preparing of prescriptions or other business which requires special skill will be done by Mr. Bean as carefully and as satisfactorily as if entrusted to Mr. Zeller.

"BILL ARP'S" JOY

UPON READING

MILLENNIAL DAWN,

THE

"PLAN OF THE AGES."

FOOD AND COMFORT FOR ALL THINKERS.

READ HIS COMMENTS.

[From Atlanta Constitution.]

A kind lady has sent me a book of 350 pages called "Millennial Dawn," published by the Tower Publishing Co., in Pittsburg, Pa., which will, I believe, awaken the thinking world. I see that its sale is already over twenty-five thousand. It is impossible to read this book without loving the writer and pondering his wonderful solution of the great mysteries that have troubled us all our lives. There is hardly a family to be found that has not lost some loved one who died outside the church—outside the plan of salvation and if Calvinism be true outside of all hope and inside of eternal torment and despair. We smother our feelings and turn away from the horrible picture. We dare not deny the faith of our fathers, and yet can it be possible that the good mother and her wandering child are forever separated—forever and forever?

I believe it is the rigidity of these teachings that makes atheists and infidels and skeptics—makes Christians unhappy and brings their gray hairs down in sorrow to the grave—a lost child, a lost soul!

Let us see how many lost souls. The geographers give the world a present population of fourteen hundred million, of whom only one hundred and sixteen million are Christians,—that is, who live in Christian countries. Of these, only sixteen million are adult members of the church; and of these, about one million walk not after the flesh but after the spirit. That is a beautiful picture.—Only one million of truly good, pious Christian people in all the world, and thirteen hundred and ninety-nine millions who are elected to be eternally damned. Add to these figures one hundred and forty-two billions, who have already lived and died in the ages past, and if all these are damned, it does look like God's plan of salvation was a miserable failure. He gets one soul for glory while Satan captures thousands.

This wonderful book teaches that trial is yet to come—that all are to rise from the dead when Christ comes, that He will offer His salvation to all people; not only to the living, but to those who rise from the dead. His kingdom will be supported by the saints and by good people everywhere, and the mother will have another chance to reclaim her wandering child and bring him unto the kingdom. This wonderful book makes no assertions that are not well sustained by the Scriptures. It is built up stone by stone, and upon every stone is the text, and it becomes a pyramid of God's love, and mercy, and wisdom. There is nothing in the Bible that the author denies or doubts, but there are many texts that he throws a flood of light upon that seems to uncover its dark and gloomy meaning. I see that editors of leading journals, and many orthodox ministers of different denominations, have indorsed it and have confessed to this new and comforting light that has dawned upon the interpretation of God's book. Then let every man read and ponder and take comfort, for we are all prisoners of hope. This is an age of advanced thought and more thinking is done than ever before,—men dare to think now. Light—more light, is the watchword. BILL ARP.

The truths set forth in the above described work so benefitted me, so opened my eyes to God's great, just, loving, wise plan, and so opened the Bible before me, that with others who have read and been caused to see, I have concluded to spend such means and strength as I possess in passing this cup of refreshing truth to other thirsty souls. To this end I am loaning this book, postage prepaid, to all who will promise a careful reading of it and to pay return postage. The above came voluntarily and unexpectedly from Mr. "Arp's" pen after reading the book, sent him by me, and is well matched by hundreds of letters from people in every station of life. I want every intelligent, thinking man and woman to read the book, for as "Arp" truly says, "It is impossible to read this book without loving the author [Doubtless God through the writer was the real Author of the plan unfolded,] and pondering his wonderful solution of the great mysteries that have troubled us all our lives."

—The meetings which have been held in the Methodist church all of this week will be continued longer. They attract large congregations and are fruitful of good results, there having been several conversions and many are asking for forgiveness of sin and a spiritual blessing. Rev. J. P. Sarvis preached on Friday evening and added to the interest of the services. We hope to hear of a continuance and increase of the good results of this effort to save souls and to bring eternal happiness to humanity.

It will not be possible to complete the structure before the middle of next summer, but a company has already been engaged to make the first appearance and open the summer season of amusements. Fuller particulars will be given as progress is made.

Accepted the Nomination.

The following letter, handed to us by Chairman Rynder of the Union Labor party, has just been received. It will be observed that it is supported by the official endorsement of Petrolia Assembly, K. of L.

SANCTUARY OF PETROLIA ASSEMBLY, NO., 7920, K. OF L. OF A.

PETROLIA, PA., NOV. 1st, 1887.

To the Knights of Labor of the State of Pa.,

GREETING.

At a special meeting of the above Assembly the following resolution was passed:

WHEREAS, For the first time in the history of this Commenwealth we have as a candidate for State Treasurer a member of the Order of K. of L., and whereas, Brother Kennedy became a member of this Assembly almost at its organization and for many years has been an active worker in the cause of Labor emancipation,

Resolved, That we earnestly urge upon each and every member of the order who possesses the right of suffrage the importance of supporting our Brother, John Q. Kennedy, of Butler, Pa., for the office of State Treasurer, nominated by the Union Labor Party. Fraternally yours,

W. H. DAUGHERTY, M. W.

(Copy.) THOS. GIVEN, R. S.

J. Q. A. Kennedy's Acceptance.

BUTLER, Oct. 28.—The choice of the Union Labor party for State Treasurer accepts in the following letter:

To T. P. Rynder, Chairman Union Labor State Committee:

DEAR SIR—You telegram officially informing me of my nomination for State Treasurer by your committee at Bradford, was duly received, and would have received an immediate answer, but for the reason that I had forever withdrawn from the political arena, so far as seeking or desiring official promotion; but coming as this nomination did, without any solicitation or any knowledge on my part, and from those representing my political opinions, demanded my sincere consideration and respect; and I could not decline their request, although I would have preferred to be known only as an humble private in the ranks of the Union Labor organization of the nation. But we must all be willing to work and sacrifice something for the good of the suffering millions of our countrymen and women. God heard the cries of the oppressed in Egypt, and he took them out with a high hand, despoiling their task masters.

When the Southern slave reached out his hand and called for help and deliverance from the free North they refused; but he that said "Thou shalt not oppress the hireling in his wages" heard their petition and answered it in blood and woe, and broke their shackles with bombs and bullets, and slavery died, and 2,000,000 of free men sacrificed their lives in that bloody conflict, that right and justice might live. The conflict has only changed base. The capital that owned the slave, is now seeking to own labor in a new form; only in a more extended and a more cruel form. These encroachments must be met not with the bullet, but with the ballot, and if the producing classes of this country will stand as a unit the victory is ours. If men knowing their wrongs will not stand shoulder to shoulder with those seeking the restoration of their rights, let them be slaves, but let us be free.

I thank your committee and through you the party you represent, for the honor conferred on me, an humble member of the Union Labor party of the great State of Pennsylvania, for the responsible and trustworthy nomination for State Treasurer. In the event of my election, the money of the State will be sacredly guarded and freed from all improper uses and precarious and hazardous deposits or any investments of a private character for speculation.

Truly yours,

J. Q. A. KENNEDY.

BUTLER, PA., October 27, 1887.

Death and Funeral of Nancy Eckley.

Nancy Eckley, wife of Lot Eckley, who departed this life in September A. D. 1872; died in Coleville on the morning of the 21st ult., at the age of 77 years, 6 months and 8 days. Her funeral took place on the 23d, from the residence of her son-in-law Mr. Rhodes, W. R. Camp officiating as undertaker. The remains were borne to Messiah's Church Cemetry, three miles North of Milesburg and deposited beside her husband's. A large concourse attended upon the occasion and words of comfort and admonition were given by the writer based on Isaiah 26:19. Mrs. E. was a devoted mother and wife and her departure from among her relatives is sadly deplored, especially by her own children, who were much attached to her. Her son Austin of Snow Shoe, who bore the greater part of the expenses, did honor to his aged mother, and the others in their turn not excepted. We believe she died trusting in Christ for salvation, Whom we adore. Nov. 2, 1887. Yours Truly,

REV. J. ZEIGLER.

250 Convicts Idle.

The Pittsburg Commercial Gazette says: "Two hundred and fifty convicts have been in close confinement for one week in the Western Penitentiary—the result of the abolishing of the shoe factory—and to-day how they are to be employed is as much a problem as ever. The work of removing the mat factory into the brick structure formerly occupied as a shoe-factory has been progressing all week and soon this business will be set up on a much larger scale. The convicts are growing very restive and every day they inquire of keepers who pass when they can get something to do, and ask to be let out for a stroll as often as possible. They are given as much exercise as it is possible to allow them, but they have to endure long periods of solitude in their cells nevertheless. It is related that some engage in the occupation of tidying their cells and keep at it for hours at a time. Others make paper baskets, and, in fact, do anything rather than be idle and alone.

—The new Garman House is now in excellent running order and the guests are enjoying its splendid arrangements and many modern conveniences. The Garman House was always immensely popular with all classes of people throughout the county. No hotel, in the past, has been conducted in a way that is more satisfactory to the people of the county, and with the multiplied improvements which have been made it will be thronged by those who will visit Bellefonte this season. Of course, the especial popularity of this hotel is largely due to the fact that Mr. Daniel Garman and his sons are courteous, pleasant gentlemen and that they are exerting themselves to make it agreeable for each guest.

—The Sun and Banner, of Williamsport, of a late date, has a sensational and silly story about an organization which, it avers, exists in that and other cities and is named the White League. Its object is to promote law and order, which we are sure, is very commendable, and it also discriminates against the colored people, which, we are equally sure, is very bad. It has been in existence in that city, says the Banner, two months, but the facts do not seem to bear out this assertion, as the Banner also says that it visits summary punishment on those who commit crimes and no such punishment has yet been heard of in that city.

Letter List.

Following is a complete list of the letters remaining uncalled for in the post-office at Bellefonte, Centre county, Penn'a, October 31, 1887:

George Cox, J. R. Faucett, J. B. Griffith, Mary Green, Mr. Hoen, John Keeler, T. F. Kidd, Clemon Lose, Mrs. Lydia Morgan, Miss Ida Meyers, Mrs Beckie Parker, Samuel J. Rowe, Miss Clair Sailor, Frank D. Taylor, M. White.

Persons inquiring for letters named in the above list will please say advertised.

JAS. H. DOBBINS, P. M.

—The large bill boards near Emanuel Brown's hotel on Bishop street, were taken down on Thursday. Thus, by degrees, the last evidences of Barnum's visit disappear.

The 66th Anniversary of Her Birth.

FILLMORE, Nov. 2, 1887.

Saturday, October 29, was the day that marked the culmination of the plans made by Mrs. G. W. Markle to give to her mother, Mrs. Nancy Koch, a pleasant surprise. Mrs. Koch lives three and a half miles west of this place.

Her plans were well devised and carried out so successfully as to afford a complete surprise, notwithstanding her mother was in the house all the time the arrangements were in progress.

The friends and neighbors began "pouring" in the house and a dozen had assembled before the venerable lady suspected what was to take place. They continued to come until fifty were present.

In due time the table was laden to its greatest capacity with the good things of the season. The happy company gathered around it and did ample justice to what was spread before them, which certainly did much credit to Mrs. Markle and the neighbors who assisted her. Good cheer was universal and the occasion was thoroughly enjoyed, all feeling that it was appropriate and beneficial to themselves to honor Mrs. Koch in this way.

The occasion, we hasten here to explain, was the 66th anniversary of her birthday. On the same day of the year, it is interesting to know, one of her sons was born and also a grandson, the remembrance of these facts making the event additionally interesting.

May the old lady live to enjoy other similar anniversaries. It was a pleasant event, not only to Mrs. K., but also to every one who took part.

A GUEST.

Legal Don'ts.

Don't acknowledge a man as an agent unless he can show that he stands in his principal's shoes as to the business in hand.

Don't transcend your authority as agent or you will become personally responsible.

Don't accept a chattel mortgage unless the schedule annexed contains every article to be covered by the lien.

Don't forget that a chattel mortgage is, in fact, a conditional bill of sale.

Don't think that compound interest will render a contract usurious.

Don't forget that there is an implied guaranty in selling goods by sample.

Don't sue for one-half of a demand unless you want to lose the other.

Don't refuse the call of a sheriff to aid him in making an arrest.

Don't hold a paper or an account an unreasonable time, or you will be presumed to admit its correctness.

Don't erect a building upon foundations sunken into the ground or it will become part of the realty.

Don't take a title where there is a judgment against a man of the same name as the grantor, without conclusive proof that he is not the judgment debtor.

Don't think that a promise to marry will be void because no time is fixed. The law will allow a reasonable time.

Don't forget that a promissory note in the hands of innocent third parties for value shuts out all defenses usually made on contracts.

—We do not admire the Democratic method of burning leaves. It looks rather lazy. It was exemplified on Wednesday afternoon in the court yard. The leaves were, of course, lying on the ground in the beautiful condition of scattered carelessness in which they fell. Instead of gathering them in a pile they were fired as they lay on the ground, filling the yard and the entire Diamond with Indian summer smoke. There stood Frank Bible, Will Pearlstein and several other political bosses, but not a hand or a rake did they use to hasten the combustion of the leaves.

—The grounds surrounding the new school house are now in most excellent condition. The double terraces extending the entire length of the front of the grounds have been sodded in a scientific manner and present a level green surface which, we can imagine, will look like velvet, when the snow disappears next Spring. Workmen and carts are still engaged at the southeast end of the grounds completing the grading orocesss. Those who have not seen it since the dedication exercises would be surprised at the vast improvement.

—A man and a woman in a buggy were seen going out Water street on Tuesday afternooon of last week. A Baum ran wildly after them and succeeded in overtaking them. Then they alighted and he entered the vehicle, returning in it. The reason for this strange proceeding has not been explained. A good many people who witnessed the occurrence indulged in various speculations as to what it meant.

—The post office was a place of interest Friday morning, though people could not get inside of it. It was closed to all persons, and, presumably, workmen had been engaged there all the previous night putting the new boxes in position. A look through the glass front revealed its appearance. The wood looks like the white ash and is substantial and elegant. We expect Dr. Dobbins, Chief Clerk Harris and Assistant Sternberg will be so proud over their renovated quarters that they will consider themselves entitled to give orders to the Postmaster General in regard to the manner of running the postal department at Washington. And, to tell the truth, we believe the Bellefonte part of the postal arrangement could give the Washington part of it several valuable points.

Pennsylvania's Forests.

Pennsylvania once possessed vast forests of white pine and hemlock, stretching over both flanks of the Allegheny mountains and extending from the northern boundary of the State to the southern. East and west of this great Allegheny ridge the whole country was covered with a heavy growth of broad-leaved trees, mixed with hemlock and pines. Merchantable pine has now almost disappeared from the State, and the forests of hard wood have either been replaced by a second growth or have been so denuded of their best trees that that comparatively little valuable hard wood timber remains. Large and valuable growths of hemlock, however, are still standing in Northwestern Pennsylvania, but from all parts of the State the manufacturers report great deterioration and scarcity of hard wood, and Pennsylvania, which at one time was only surpassed by Michigan in the value of its wood crop, must soon lose its position as one of the great lumber producing states.

The forests of Pennsylvania, especially through the mountain regions, have long suffered from destructive fires.

In the Interest of the National Guard

The new cadet corps has been referred to. It is just what is needed in a military way. Its objects, as we shall see, are such as will much improve the military service in every respect.

On inquiry, we have learned that it is conducted in connection with the National Guard and is intended as a sort of training school for the Guard. In the cadet corps the young soldiers will receive their first lessons, and as the National Guard needs reinforcements, they will be taken from the cadets. This will enable the Guard always to be in superb condition as there will be no "raw recruits," but all will be well trained soldiers. The requirements are that the cadet must be 16 years of age and be 5ft. 6 inches in height.

Lieut Reber has been asked to drill the cadets and will probably do so. The corps is not thoroughly organized but doubtless will be soon, as the young men seem to be taking much interest in it.

How they Celebrated.

We are informed that the students of the State College celebrated Hollow-e'en in a very novel manner. The larger part of the college building and each room is heated with steam. The cadets all secured tin horns and connected them with the steam radiators by means of rubber pipes.

The horns were then fastened to the windows of the different rooms and at a given signal near midnight steam was turned on. The deafening and terrifying noise that ensued beggars description. People for miles around were aroused and alarmed. The cadets was finally stopped by the janitor turning off the steam from the building.

—There were two recent weddings in Philipsburg, in which three of the four persons directly concerned were members of church choirs, seeming to indicate that such occupation is favorable to matrimony. The first couple was married on Tuesday morning, the 1st, at 5.30 o'clock. Mr. Harry Cunningham married Miss Emma Weber. The bride sang in St. Paul's P. E. church, that city, and among the wedding gifts was a handsome silver tea service from the other members of the choir. The second couple was Mr. John Mason and Miss Cynthia Morgan, both of Philipsburg. Both of them were members of the Presbyterian choir. They sail on Saturday for Liverpool, England, to remain until Spring.

—The Philipsburg Ledger shows the people of that town that they are in a sad plight so far as their supplies of light and water are concerned. An election held some time ago to lay a tax for water was illegal, because the people voted for a water tax alone. If the recent measure had carried, including both gas and water, it would have made the former valid. The illegality of the first vote was kept a secret, but now the failure of the second has led to that fact being made public. It is said that consumers of water are not required to pay tax and furthermore can collect from the borough the water tax they previously paid to it.

—Gregg Post, which manages the entertainments of Bellefonte, is to be congratulated on the character of amusements, at least from now until the second week in December. This week, on Tuesday evening, was Moore and Vivian's "Our Jonathan." On Thursday evening, the 17th, Hazelrigg's "One Million Dollars" company will entertain. During the week beginning on Monday, the 28th, there will be two entertainments—Monday, the 28th, the celebrated Francis Bishops "Mugs Landing" Comedy company, and on Wednesday evening "Fortune's Foundling." There could not be a better selection.

—It is possible to make money in the hotel business without a bar. For instance, we notice that John M. Cooney, proprietor of the Nichols House in Condersport, a temperance town, has made $6,500 in seven years. Seven years ago he was $1,500 in debt. He died the other day leaving an estate of $5,000.

HALL'S

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years Doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure now on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly upon the blood and muscus surface of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circular and testimonials. Address, F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

Sold by all Druggists, 75 cts.

CATARRH CURE.

Gov. Beaver to be There.

Governor Beaver, it is said, will be in Pittsburg next Friday evening, the 11th instant, to attend a fair to be given by the 18th regiment. The Dispatch of Pittsburg on Friday says:

"One of the interesting nights at the fair will be the occasion of the visit of Governor Beaver and the Generals of the National Guard. Assurance was received yesterday that on the 11th instant, next Friday, Governor Beaver, Adjutant General Hastings and the Governor's staff; Major General Hartranft; General Snowden, of the First Brigade; General Wylie, of the Second Brigade; General Gobin, of the Third Brigade, and their staff officers will be present at the fair. The action of the Chamber of Commerce in commending the fair to the public was supplemented yesterday by President William E. Schmertz, at the suggestion of a number of directors, through Superintendent Follansbee, in appointing a committee to co-operate in the reception of the distinguished visitors. In naming the committee President Schmertz selected gentlemen each of whom represents a different branch of business, is an ex-soldier and a director of the chamber. The members of the committee are General Wm. A. Robinson, Major S. L. McHenry, Colonel S. M. Wickersham, Colonel Robert Munroe, Captain Wm. McClelland, Colonel Thomas P. Roberts and Captain Wm. P. Herbert.

While in the city Governor Beaver and party will be at the Monongahela House.

DON'T

let that cold of yours run on. You think it is a light thing. But it may run into catarrh. Or into pneumonia. Or consumption.

Catarrh is disgusting. Pneumonia is dangerous. Consumption is death itself.

The breathing apparatus must be kept healthy and clear of all obstructions and offensive matter. Otherwise there is trouble ahead.

All the diseases of these parts, head nose, throat, bronchical tubes and lungs, can be delightfully and entirely cured by the use of Boschee's German Syrup. If you don't know this already, thousands and thousands of people can tell you. They have been cured by it, and "know how it is themselves." Bottle only 75 cents. Ask your druggist.

—Nothing but words of admiration are spoken of the new arrangements at the post-office. The boxes are beautiful. Everyone contains the initials U. S. The decorations of chased glass in front add to the rich effect. Of course, this style necessitiates the red tape and ceremony of a separate window for stamps. La, me, how very stylish we are becoming! The Doctor and his assistants look much handsomer than they really are when they are seen inside the windows. But the REPUBLICAN box, which used to stick so it could'nt be opened, has begun to stick again. Somehow this box has a habit of acting the swell in a way that is inconvenient.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma and all Throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after testing its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human sufferings, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this receipt, in German, French or English, with full direction for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. A. NOYES, 149 Power's Block, Rochester, N. Y. 1911yeow

—The people of Pleasant Gap and vicinity are holding meetings and circulating petitions with the object of asking the court to appoint receivers to condemn the Lewistown and Bellefonte turnpike and convert it into a public road. The petition must be signed by twenty-five or more resident tax-payers. The receivers must assess the damages caused to the owners of the turnpike which are to be paid by the county. If the damages shall be thought excessive the citizens may appeal; if the owners do not consider them sufficient they may appeal. If it becomes a public road without toll-gates the respective boroughs and townships through which it passes will be required to repair and maintain it.

Bellefonte Republican,

EDWARD T. TUTEN, - - Editor

Terms, $2.00 per annum in Advance

Local Department.

—Sheriff Cooke.

—Sunday was a perfect day.

—Associate Judge Daniel Rhoads.

—Many people in town on Monday.

—Hurrah for Robert Cooke, Jr., and Daniel Rhoads!

—Street Commissioner Shaughency is grading Linn street.

—Why not have a daily paper in Centre county equal to the best?

—New engagements are announced daily. The happy ones are congratulated.

—County superintendents of schools have started on the annual round of visitation.

—The mountains near Millheim were on fire all of last week, the flames approaching quite near the town.

—Read your home paper. It contains all foreign and home news. No other paper can give you all the news.

—Our Penns Valley subscribers should and do, as far as we know, receive this paper on the day of publication.

—Helen Schaeffer, the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Schaeffer, gave a children's party on Monday evening.

—Frank Candor, a son of Josiah Candor, of Lock Haven, had one of his arms broken on Tuesday afternoon while playing.

—Of course, the druggists are advertising. If you don't believe us read the Bellefonte Home Journal, published by F. Potts Green.

—The blasting was begun on Monday to prepare a foundation for the new opera house to be erected in the rear of the Bush Arcade.

—Tyrone Presbyterians will also hold a Foreign Missionary Convention. It will occur on Friday, the day following a similar event here.

—We are told that the Methodist church was thronged to the doors on Sunday evening and that the religious interest is very great.

—Notwithstanding the proximity of election day, the various meetings called on Monday evening to consider other interests were well attended.

—Mr. E. C. Humes has laid a new brick pavement in front of the double house owned by him on Howard street, between Allegheny and Spring streets.

—The indications are that fires are raging on the mountains not far away. We are told that there is considerable fire about one mile below Milesburg.

—James Bryson, Esq., of Philipsburg, died suddenly on Saturday night last of cramp. He was a lawyer by profession and a member of the Centre County bar.

—Rev. Chas. T. Steck performed the wedding ceremony on Saturday, evening, the matrimonial candidates being Mr. Weaver, the local expressman, and Sallie Taylor.

—Judging by the way political affidavits have been published in the Lock Haven papers we must conclude that there are not many people down that way whose mere word can be believed.

—The Woman's Guild of the Episcopal church will meet his (Thursday) evening at the home of Mrs Thos. R. Reyno'ds. The entire congregation is invited and the gathering will be a social one.

—Mr. David Glenn has a most beautiful picture of the Bucktail regiment as it was gathered in reunion in front of the City Hotel in Williamsport a few weeks ago. Familiar faces are easily distinguished.

—There was another musical event in the Presbyterian church on Sunday morning. Mrs. Dr. R. G. Hayes was in the choir and sang a beautiful duet with Miss Annie Speer. It was a delightful rendering of a fine selection and the ladies are to be congratulated.

—Another disgraceful scene occurred on High street on Tuesday afternoon. Two fellows became crazy drunk and we guess they were inclined to fight; anyway they struggled with everyone who attempted to control them. They howled like demons. In course of time they were placed in the cooler.

—We really forgot to record, the early part of this week, the presence in town of that genial and whole-souled resident of Philipsburg, Mr. John Kenyon. He is, by the way, becoming a prominent and useful citizen of that lively town. We wish him continued success and are confident that no other citizen in that place more thoroughly deserves the confidence of the people.

—Rev. Chas. T. Steck has about completed arrangements for his lecture tour. He will begin on the 17th inst., and will lecture in six or seven of the cities and towns in the western part of this State. We hope and predict for him very great success. Although we have always been of the opinion that his reading of Shakespeare is his best accomplishment—in which we consider him absolutely peerless—yet, it is certain that as a lecturer he has talents far above the ordinary.

THE COUNCIL MEETS.

AND ATTENDS TO THE AFFAIRS OF A PROSPEROUS AND GROWING BOROUGH.

At the meeting of the council, on Monday evening, there were present President Hillibish, Clerk Mitchell, Robert Cole, Robert Hepburn, Andrew Brockerhoff, Frank B. Stover, L. T. Munson and R. A. Brouse.

After the reading of the minutes Mr. R. A. Beck called the attention of the council to the foreign fruit stand kept by the Italians in front of the First National Bank building. He says that so far as the effect of their establishment on his business is concerned, it is injurious, and he asked for their removal. The Nuisance committee is empowered to inquire if it is a nuisance, and if so to proceed according to ordinance.

Peter McMahon was present to express his indignation because of the removal of a street hydrant. The council consented to give him and other parties who need water the facilities to put in private hydrants.

G. W. Behers, who lives in Spring township, asked for information about obtaining water supply. The Water committee will investigate.

On request, the water tax assessed against Joseph Grant was reduced one-half, and Romaine Montrauss, who now occupies the house where Mr. Grant lived, will be assessed for one half year.

The Street committee reported several notices which had been served on property owners to build boardwalks, and the attention of council was called to the fact that the new boardwalk on Linn street has shut off all passage for teams between that street and Lamb street.

The forebay at the water works was reported out of order and instruction was given to have it repaired at once. It is needed especially to give the required power to the water wheel. All leaks in water pipes have been rapaired and the plugs are in good condition.

The market fees reported were $7.40.

The Nuisance and Fire and Police committees made no special report.

The treasurer's report showed that the sum now due him from the borough is $7768.37.

A special committee, consisting of Messrs, Stover, Brockerhoff and Hepburn, failed to report.

The Collins Brothers and the tenants of the Gephart and Spangler houses were reported as among those which now use water and will be assessed accordingly.

To permit Mr. Bartruff to engage in building, the lock-up, now occupying part of his property, will be moved.

Where the Fires are Raging.

We copy from Altoona Times Tuesday morning what it relates as to the source of the smoke now hanging in the heavens:

"The present dry spell is the worst ever known, and the valleys of the Alleghenies, filled with layers of leaves, in many cases two or three feet deep, have been ripe for weeks for a great conflagration. Some fugitive fires were started recently, but the flames did not begin in real earnest until Friday afternoon, when fires in the valley below Scott's Knob and over from Kittanning Point, spurred on by high winds, fairly leaped up the steep sides and have since been raging with unabated fury. The scene is grand beyond description, covering as it does an extent of territory three miles long, and the crackling roaring hiss of the burning timber sends out clouds of smoke that obscure the sun long before the sunset hour.

The woods about Cresson Springs began burning yesterday, and unless rain speedily interferes, thousands of acres of oak, chestnut and jack pine will be destroyed. The big hotel is in no danger, but some of the surrounding cottages are in the direct track of the fire. Only a change in the wind can save a fine tract of timber, the property of Judge Dean, and hundreds of people are in from the surrounding country fighting almost against hope the flames' advance.

Creeping over from Kittanning Point and Scott's Knob, during Sunday the fires struck the Dry Gap Road county yesterday, and invested the sides of far-famed Wopsononock. The farming population turned out en mass to save their crops, their barns and dwelling and the property of their neighbors. Everything now is of common interest. Hundreds of acres of cleared land have been burned over, and at noon yesterday the fire was three miles in a direct line, hissing and rushing along, the wind carrying live coals of bark hundreds of feet ahead into new places. The situation last evening was serious. Nothing could pass over the Dry Gap road, walls of fire threatening instant destruction. Charles and Griffith Shannon, of Eleventh avenue and Sixteenth street, this city, went out to their father's farms early yesterday morning to aid in saving property, and were three times cut off from the fighting brigades. They were nearly suffocated the last time and were rescued with difficulty. A boy named Arnot was caught by the fire and lost all the hair on his head. There were a number of narrow escapes. Ramer's lumber works were saved after three days' hard fighting. His place is below the Buck Horn.

The flames are now sweeping towards Homer's Gap, the rich beds of punk dry leaves assisting in the spread. Mr. Shannon says the fire swept down towards Altoona yesterday afternoon at the rate of three miles an hour, and the wind was blowing a gale. The chestnut tracks along the Wopsononock are a total loss, and owners of dwellings out the Dry Gap road were in great alarm yesterday. The atmosphere is heavily freighted with smoke and the odor of burning leaves is everywhere. Last evening the city street lights looked as they do in a fog. A rough estimate places the timber destroyed and injured at from $30,000 to $50,000.

Too Regular in his Habits.

On Saturday a well known physician of Bellefonte took time to narrate an incident. It was about Patrick McBurney. The scene was in Huntingdon. Mr. Burney is a genuine Irishman and is methodical and regular in habits and actions. He is the man who makes himself generally useful in a grocery store.

McBurney, in measuring out the molasses during the summer, always poured it through the funnel into the jug or other vessel brought for it. On a cold morning he was sent to the cellar to draw some molasses. A crowd came in the store and he was needed upstairs but did not come. The proprietor called, repeatedly and was answered each time, "Yes, sir; I'm coming."

At length, with patience exhausted, the grocer went to the cellar to find what kept Patrick. He found him with the funnel full of molasses which the cold weather had made so thick that it would not flow through the narrow end. "Patrick, what keeps you so long?" he asked; "You can never fill the jug in that way."

"Faith, yes honor," said Patrick, "I thought this was the only way to measure molasses and that all work must be done in the regular channel. Isn't th is the molasses channel, sir?"

The merchant tried to explain and we hope Patrick understands all about it by this time.

A Resignation Accepted.

On Monday evening a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Young Men's Christian Association was held and Mr. C. E. Schaeffer, the general secretary, sent in his resignation of that position, to take effect on Saturday of this week the 12th inst. It was accepted by the Board.

The resignation and its acceptance will be surprising to a majority of the citizens of Bellefonte. Mr. Schaeffer has made a very excellent secretary. He has many very desirable qualifications in a high degree. The Association, in all its interests, has been prosperous under his secretaryship. The report, just issued by the Association, attests that the financial and spiritual life of the organization during the year ending October 19 was better than during some preceding years.

We have not learned Mr. Schaeffer's intentions for the future, but we know we are joined by all friends of the Association in wishing him much prosperity.

November Weather Predictions.

Mansell's planetary signal says the principal planetary storm and electric earth-disturbing dates for November are located about the 11th, 13th, to 22d, and 25 th to the 30th. The storms are likely to be very severe from the 20th to the 21st and 22d, as Neptune is in its opposition on the 20th, or in the same position as it was when it gave us the great storm in November, 1886. The temperature will probably average above the mean of the season, both in the states and Northern Europe. November will be an unusually stormy month, with the temperature running to great extremes—likely heavy rain storms and floods in sea boundary states and heavy snow storms in the northern districts. Sun spots will be more abundant but fluctuating during the last half of the period.

—The gentleman who will probably be Mr. C. G. McMillen's successor as proprietor of the Brockerhoff House is Mr. G. S. Post, of Williamsport. Whether or not he will take the house will be definitely known to-morrow. Mr. Post is a gentleman of extensive general information and large experience in the capacity of "Mine Host." For years he was proprietor of the famous hotel at Minnequa. He is acquainted with many of our citizens and when he (Mr. Post) was introduced to Dr. Dobbins as the *Post*master, the two gentlemen acknowledged having been acquainted many years before. We are told that Mr. Post is a Republican in politics. This, we believe, will be something unusual, all Bellefonte hotel men being Democrats.

Thirty Thousand Dollars.

D. K. Pearson, of Chicago, a retired capitalist and annual contributor, has given the Chicago Young Men's Christian Association the brick block at 3131 and 3133 Cottage Grove Ave, valued at $30,000. It is given without reservation, except that the income of the property be used in forwarding the work of the Association.

He says: "I think I have chosen the best institution possible to give money to, and I shall be interested in watching the results."

William P. Duncan, of Philipsburg, listened to election returns as they came into Hon. John B. Linn's office Tuesday evening.

CRUSHED TO DEATH.

THE FATAL ACCIDENT TO CONDUCTOR MICHAEL DUPRYNNE.

Michael DuPrynne was the conductor on the local freight train on the Bellefonte, Nittany and Lemont railroad. On Saturday morning, while engaged at his regular duties, he was so terribly crushed by a heavy plank that he died on Sunday at 4 o'clock.

The local freight of twelve cars was at Swengle Station, two miles from Millmont, at 10 o'clock on Saturday. It became necessary to move a freight car which was on another track, which was attempted by the usual process of poling. The oak plank used was placed against one of the cars of Conductor DuPrynne's train and also against the car on the other track, Conductor DuPrynne handling the plank. The brakes of the car had not been turned and it was not started easily. So forcible was the resistance that it bent the oak plank, which forced itself across Mr. DuPrynne's breast and crushed him against the car. He could not give the alarm, but some one who saw his condition told the engineer and the freight train was pulled away. Mr. DuPrynne fell forward with the plank to the ground.

He was taken to his home in Lewisburg where he died at 4 o'clock on Sunday.

We believe he had been married only a short time and leaves a young wife. The deceased was about thirty years of age. He was a member of the Pennsylvania Railroad Relief Fund and had insurance in the Binghamton Accident Insurance Company—about $3,000 in all.

He was an Italian and came to this country when only a boy. His experience since arriving here was quite interesting and peculiar. At length, seven or eight years ago, he found work on the railroad. He was employed on the Lewisburg and Tyrone road before the Nittany and Lemont was completed. Since then he has been conductor of the local freight, coming into Bellefonte daily.

He was careful and faithful and his death is much regretted by all who knew him. We believe he has acquaintances in Bellefonte.

—Well, in building the walk along East Linn street the common where the tennis court is located has been reached. There the roadway leading across the common from Linn street, south, has been rendered useless and conveyances cannot pass over it. Since this passage has been barred dozens of persons have driven from Lamb street to Linn street only to find that they could not reach Linn street in that way and they were compelled to return. One business man was highly indignant. "It is difficult to get around in Bellefonte anyway," he said; "and now to find that the only means of communication between East Lamb and East Linn street has been destroyed is an outrage." It seems to us that necessity demands an open street at that place.

Serious Loss by Fire.

The large bank barn owned by Micheal Confer, on the farm adjoining the property of Jno. A. Woodward, near Howard, was burned on Friday night at 11 o'clock. It was the work of incendiary, a tramp who was hanging about during the day probably applying the match.

All of the contents of the barn were destroyed. Part of the contents were 1400 bushels of corn, 500 bushels of oats, 100 bushels of buckwheat, 40 bushels of rye, 40 tons of hay, 16 fattening hogs, 4 cattle and a team of mules. He had been offered $400 for the mules.

The building was worth at least $1500. The contents were very valuable. The property destroyed was insured.

—Mr. James Noll has an interesting old paper which he will probably relate all about in a forthcoming number of the Centre Democrat. The paper itself is not only of interest, but it came into his possession in a peculiar manner, being found in an old house with several other papers which are so mutilated that they connot be read. Among the contents of this paper is a letter from Gov. Strunk. It also contains the wedding notices of several prominent Centre county people, one of them being that of Capt. Austin Curtin.

—The Steele brothers built the foundation of Rev. J. A. Woodcock's new house and made about as rapid work as we have ever known. The walls seemed to grow as if by magic. On Saturday morning we calculated that the wall might be finished by evening, but, to our surprise, it was completed at noon. It is real refreshing to see speed made on work of this sort, because, as a rule, it proceeds so slowly as to be absolutely tiresome to look at.

—Clevan Dinges used to be situated in Harris' building. J. C. Weaver was located way up on East High street with R. M. Magee, Esq. Clevan said he would come half way up hill if Weaver would come half way down. They met in front of Crider's building, on the second floor of which they are now located in the insurance business under the firm name, Weaver & Dinges.

—Mr. Henry Holter, a well-known and respected resident of Liberty township, died on Friday morning at 8 o'clock. He was about 60 years age. A lung trouble, of which he had suffered for a long time, caused his death. Mr. Holter was a Mennonite preacher and had labored faithfully in that capacity. He leaves a widow and several children, all but two of whom are married. The funeral occurred on Saturday, the interment being in Schenck's cemetery, near Howard borough.

Personal Pencilings.

L. T. Munson rides in a fairy gig.

Miss Mary Wilson, of Stormstown, after a brief visit in Tyrone, has returned home.

Mr. Nelson Lucas, of Washington, D. C., is greeting his numerous friends in town.

Samuel Hazel, a son of Adam Hazel, has entered the Watchman office to learn the trade.

Mr. and Mrs. William Cowdrick have come home from Roaring Springs and will reside in Bellefonte.

Mrs. Rev. Hall, of Honesdale, and her mother from Boalsburg are guests at the residence of Dr. J. W. Rhone.

Miss Mary Newell has returned home from Chicago and other cities westward, where she spent several months.

Mr J. L. Robbins, of Philadelphia, is a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Schroyer. He is a brother of Mrs. S.

Mr. Arthur Pearson, of Williamsport, included Bellefonte in his travels on Thursday. He reports business good.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Frank Keller departed Saturday morning for Danville. After a few days spent there they will go to Washington City.

Mr. Guyer Mattern, of Scotia, occasionally visits Bellefonte, Wednesday morning, of last week, being the time for one of his visits. He is always welcome.

Mrs. Frank Peebles Green has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Henry Southard in Philipsburg. She left that place Friday to visit her son, Edgar Green, in Altoona.

Mr. T. R. Buddinger, of Snow Shoe, seemed to be in a very pleasant mood as he stood smoking and chatting on the platform of the railroad station here on Monday afternoon.

Prof. George P. Bible and wife, of the Lock Haven Normal School, on Saturday, came to Bellefonte for the first time since the present fall term began. They remained until Monday.

Mr. John M. Ward, of this place, is now the central figure in the base ball interest of the country and as president of the Brotherhood writes to the League managers in terms which they cannot fail to understand.

Mr. Bell, who is the superintendent at the Valentine furnace, has moved with his family into the fine mansion on Allegheny street, recently occupied by Col. W. H. Wilkinson. He will remain there until Spring.

Rev. George W. Miller, D. D., formerly of this place and now residing in Brooklyn, N. Y., delivered a lecture in Harrisburg on Monday evening of last week. His subject was "Pluck." The lecture is described as eloquent and brilliant.

E. J. Brown, Jr., and A. J. Brown are erecting a large and handsome frame residencer on the north side of East Bishop street, the foundation walls having been completed. It is 20x27 with an addition and will be a notable adjunct to that rapidly improving street.

Prof E. S. McCarthy, a former school superintendent of Huntingdon county, is in Bellefonte, soliciting orders for a valuable book, "What the World Believes." The book is an excellent one and Prof. McCarthy is just the man to make its merits known. We wish him success.

On Saturday Mr. Calvin Dale, of Kansas, arrived in Bellefonte. His first inquiry when he stepped from the cars was to be directed to any one who was named Dale, and he soon found Clement Dale, Esq. Mr. Calvin Dale is a relative of the numerous Dale connection in this county, and he and Clem went out on the 2 o'clock train to look for the other members of the family. This is his first visit here since he was seven years of age. He was born in this county, but, of course, being so young when he went away, he does not remember much about it. We believe it is partly business which called him here, and he will remain some time.

—On Saturday Mr. Miles, ex-postmaster of Milesburg, was working near the railroad, when he stepped at least six feet from the track to avoid a freight train which came thundering along. Some of the cars of the train were filled with coal. A piece of coal struck him on the temple with force sufficient to knock him down. A gash was cut in his head and the bone was bruised. There is no known law which would cause the coal to be hurled in that direction from a passing train, and it is not likely that any new law was put in force in this particular instance. It looks very much as if someone on the train threw the coal and should receive punishment.

—Miss Mollie A. Krom, of Lock Haven, was married on Tuesday morning in the Episcopal church of that city to Mr. Charles H. Myers, a prominent young business man. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. A. Krom, proprietress of Krom's hotel, and is well known here.

Deer Park.

WHERE MR. JOHN UZZLE, OF SNOW SHOE, KEEPS HIS PETS.

The eleven deer owned by Mr. John Uzzle, of Snow Shoe, have a most beautiful home. It is an enclosure of two acres or more, the high picket fence around it barring entrance of anything not desired inside and also preventing the escape of the deer. But the graceful animals would have no desire to leave the beautiful home prepared for them. All its natural beauty remains undisturbed by the hand of man, and the deers wander at will through the rocky fastnesses or leap from crag to crag without let or hindrance.

A stream of limpid water winds through the park, adding to the beauty and affording a place of refreshment for the inhabitants. There is a neat and tasteful building located at a convenient spot into which they can go to obtain such food as the natural growths do not afford. In it is a trough, which is so arranged as to receive a fresh supply of food whenever even a part of its contents is removed by the hungry deer. The food passes in automatically and the deer need never be without sufficient refreshment to satisfy their appetites.

There are several other wild animals in the park, including a few rabbits. It is wrong, however, to denominate them "wild." All have become sufficiently tame. The deer consists of one buck, three does and seven fawn. The does are so tame that they will come to a stranger and eat from his hand. The fawn, being naturally more full of life, run when one ventures near them.

Mr. Uzzle believes he has the finest collection of deer in the country. He challenges the world to equal them. It is a beautiful and attractive realization of a fine conception—to keep these most graceful denizens of the forest in such a lovely home.

Escaped from Jail.

A special from Huntingdon, dated Monday, the 7th, to the Altoona Tribune, says:

This morning as Sheriff Isenberg entered the prison department of the jail to see after the condition of the inmates he was startled to find a huge hole in the outer wall leading from one of the cells and through which the occupant of the cell had escaped. The prisoner who thus cleverly obtained his liberty is John R. Ward, a native of Philadelphia, who was serving a term of six months for committing a murderous assault on Conductor Charles Wolf, of Harrisburg, who had ejected him from a train upon which he was stealing a ride. Ward retaliated by shooting at conductor, the bullet passing through the latter's whiskers. It was the intention of the authorities, after the expiration of Ward's sentence, to rearrest him upon the charge of carrying concealed weapons.

At about 2 o'clock, as nearly as his fellow-prisoners could determine, Ward attracted their attention by his efforts to unfasten the outside bolt on his cell door. This he accomplished in a very short time, which was a signal for the other prisoners to raise an alarm, which, however, was ineffectual, as their cries failed to reach the ears of the sheriff's sleeping family. When the prisoners first endeavored to arouse the sheriff by their cries Ward calmly suspended his further operations for a time, and, drawing a revolver, walked back into the corridor of the jail and demanded immediate silence of his fellow prisoners, which was obeyed. He then quickly removed a few stones from the western wall leading into a public alley and, with the aid of a couple of blankets which he tied together, reached the street in safety. He has not yet been recaptured, nor is he likely to be.

It is said Ward belongs to a highly respectable family of Philadelphia, but possessing a roving disposition, he has gradually descended the social scale until now he is a reckless outcast.

Match Factory in Philipsburg.

The Philipsburg Journal says that the match factory to be started in that place is an assured success. Following are names of the stockholders: H. K. Grant, W. H. Sanford, M. D. Ready, Geo. H. Ashman, O. Perry Jones, Wm. P. Duncan, R. F. Mull, F. J. Lewis, W. H. Wigton and Wm. E. Irwin. The machinery has been ordered and the business will be in full operation in less than six weeks. At a meeting of the stockholders yesterday the ground was purchased and the contract for the building let. It will be situated across the bridge, on the left hand side, between the Beech Creek railroad and Moshannon, and will be 26x100 feet, two stories high. H. L. Caldwell has the contract.

—At a fire on Main street in Millheim on Wednesday morning of last week the establishment of Mr. Ulrich, the saddler, was much damaged. There was also great excitement, which subsided as the flames were extinguished.
